Grade, ACHS graduations are biggest news around

by GLORIA DAVIS

With approximately 272 grade school students from the Antioch area graduating and 359 seniors getting diplomas at Antioch High School, graduation is the biggest news around for last week and this week.

Almost every family in Antioch, either has a son or daughter graduating or has a relative or good friend marching to "Pomp and Circumstance."

At Antioch High School, 359 diplomas will be handed out by Board of Education President Glen Moore at 2 p.m. on Sunday, in the North Gym.

Two students are slated to speak at the commencement exercises, Sue Klemme, president of the student council and Mark Ellerbrock, senior class president.

Antioch Grade School Dist. 34 will graduate 144 eighth graders on Friday, at Antioch High School. The diplomas will be given out by Board of Education President Ed Haley. Pastor Darrell D. English, pastor of the Antioch United Methodist Church, will give the invocation.

Student challenge winners, Gina Ross and Brett Erdmann will be speaking and so will James McClure, a former AUGS honor student and also an ACHS honor student.

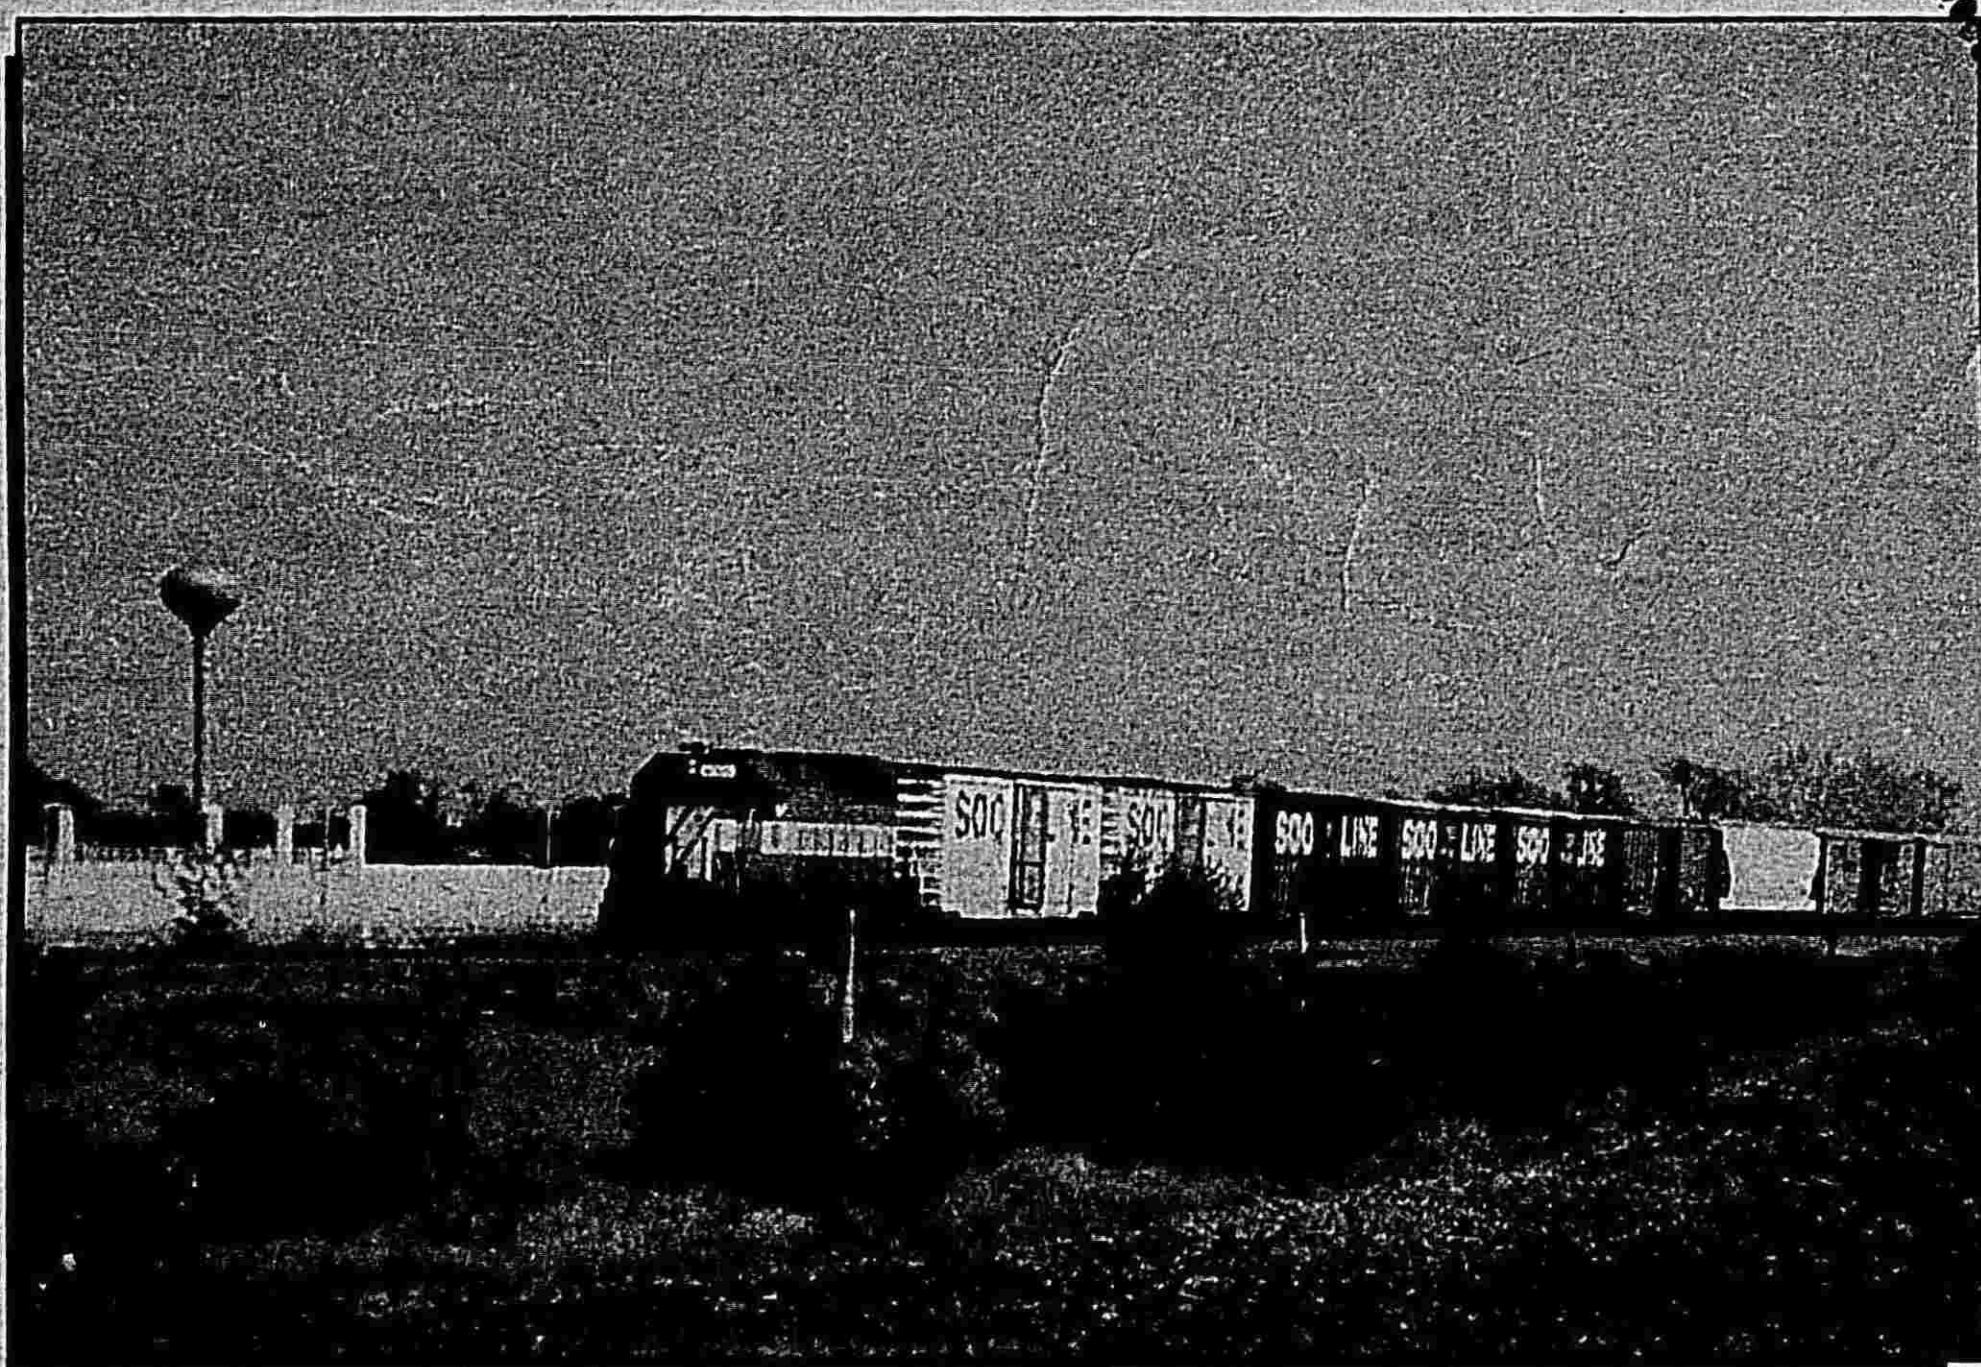

Twenty seven Grass Lake eighth graders received their diplomas last Friday from Board of Education President Don Grob. State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis spoke to the graduates about young peoples' responsibilities.

The President's Physical Fitness awards were given out to James Utinans, Heidi Grob and Rachel Arnold. John Hines received the citizenship award and the valedictorian was also Arnold and the salutatorian was Grob.

The 31 graduates of St. Peters School took part in commencement exercises on Saturday, May 28, at a 1:30 p.m. Mass. The church's pastor, Father Lawrence Hanley distributed the diplomas while high honors awards went to Carrie Delaney, Jennifer Kozenski and Brian Smith.

The 12 eighth graders at Faith Evangelical Lutheran Church graduated on Thursday, May 27. Diplomas were distributed by Board President Randy Schulemeister.

New look in commuting

Besides familiar freights, Wisconsin Central engines will be pulling commuter cars, if interested citizens along route of former Soo Line have their say. Next session of Wisconsin Central Commuter Task Force is set for Thursday, July 7, at Buffalo Grove Village Hall to air findings on parking and station needs for segment running south from Mundelein. Reports will be handed over to METRA, commuter rail arm of Regional Transportation Authority. Grayslake, Lake Villa and Antioch segment has been determined to have insufficient commuter traffic at present to warrant further study.—Photo by Mike Jordan.

more progress could be made by using a professional negotiator."

The board committee will be meeting with the entire school board on Sunday, June 5 to decide whether it will continue to negotiate or hire a professional negotiator.

The ACHSEA negotiating committee revealed that of the 46 original items on the table, 25 still remain to be settled. No monetary items have been settled.

The teachers' committee has accepted 10 board proposals. The board committee has dropped four items, but has not accepted any of the teachers' proposals.

The ACHSEA committee indicated to the board committee that it is willing to meet with the current committee, a new board committee, the entire board or their legal advisor(s) at a mutually agreeable time.

The ACHSEA representatives also indicate that the teachers' association is willing to go to binding arbitration in order to obtain a new contract.

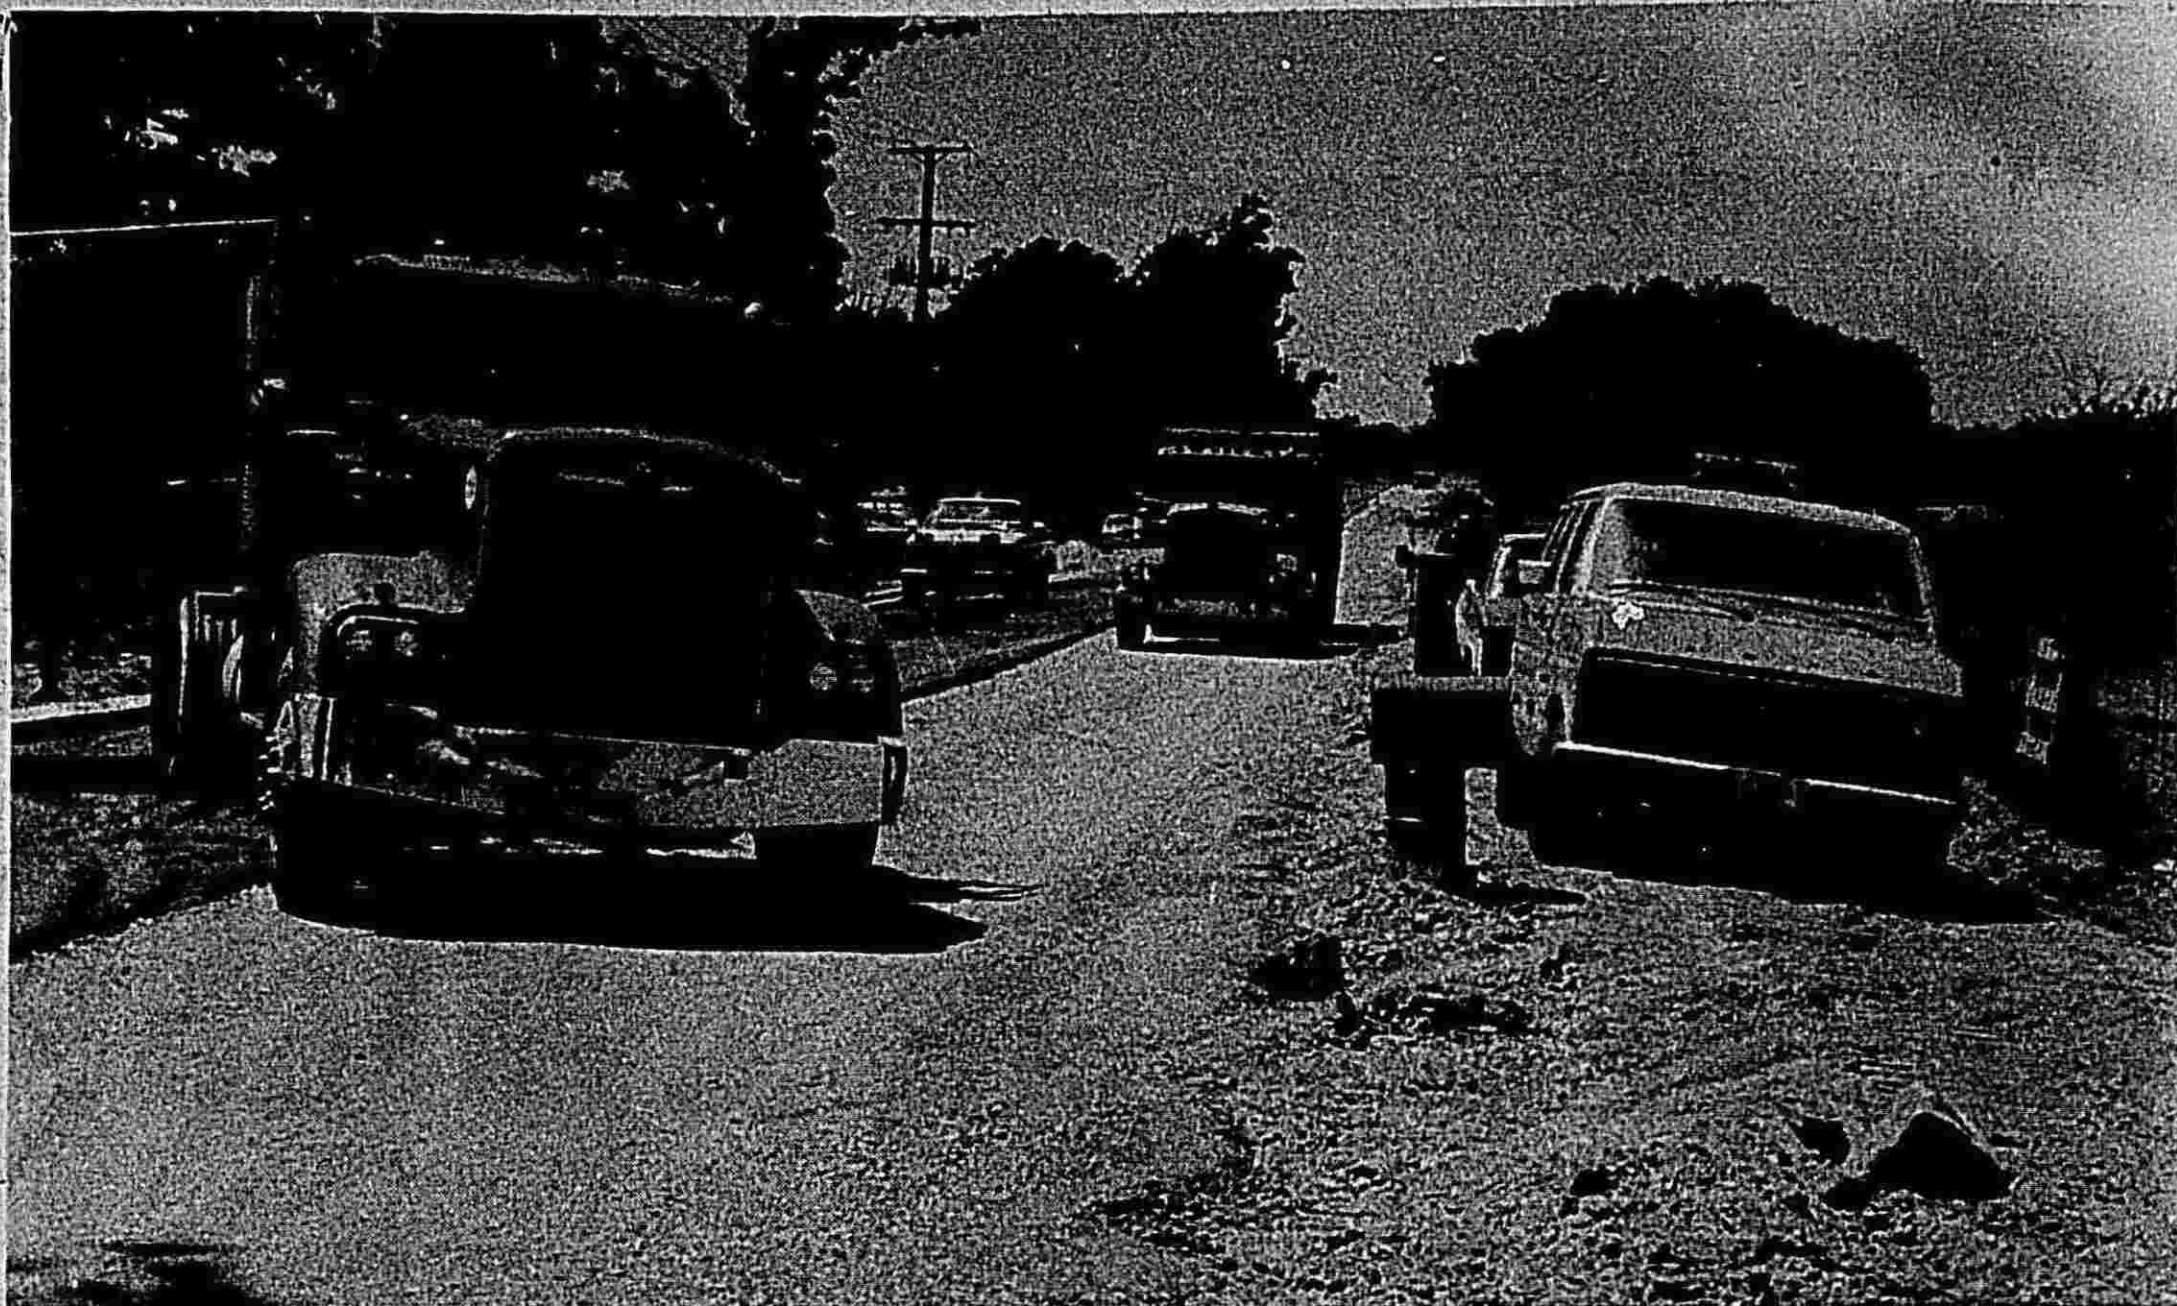

To date, the two committees have met six times for a total of approximately 20 hours.

Board of education member, Tom Fisher, who is head of the negotiations committee for the board of education said that he had no comment at this time, but will be meeting with the entire board of education concerning the status of the negotiations in a special executive session on Sunday June 5, prior to the graduation ceremonies.

Monaville Rd. nears completion

Paving work on Monaville Rd. is being completed heading toward a mid-June reopening of the one-mile stretch between Fairfield and Cedar Lake Rds. The road has been realigned, drainage improved and curbs and gutters added. Starting in mid-August a 1.1 mile stretch between Cedar Lake Rd. and Rte. 83 will be improved in the same fashion. The work now being completed cost $839,000.

Boat stickers available

New stickers for boats using the Chain O'Lakes are now available at the offices of the Chain O'Lakes Waterway Agency and at 13 other locations in Lake and McHenry counties.

The new red-and-white stickers are required for all boats with motors and for all boats over 16-foot long. Operators of boats running illegally without stickers will be subject to a no-warning arrest and court fines.

The old stickers expired March 31 and the new ones will be good until March 31, 1989.

Cost of the stickers vary, depending on the length and horsepower of the boat, $10, $25 and $50. Agency spokesmen said most boats require a $25 sticker.

Stickers may be purchased at the agency office, 64 E. Grand Ave., Fox Lake, during office hours weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and also on weekends from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Stickers also available at the McHenry County Currency Exchange in McHenry, McHenry Bass and Pro Shop, Hansen Marine in McHenry, the Fox Lake Currency Exchange, Port Barrington Marina, All Marine in Cary, Nielsen Enterprises in Lake Villa, Antioch Currency Exchange, Don Ericson Marina in Algonquin, Crystal Lake Currency Exchange and Triangle Sports and Marine near Antioch.

The agency has increased the cost of special event stickers from $25 last year to $100 this year. Proceeds of the increase will be allotted to the sponsoring organization. For special event tickets, a six-day notice is needed.

Temporary five-day stickers are also available at a cost of $10 for any size boat.

Buy street broom

Leader Equipment Co. of Antioch will supply a new streetbroom to the Village of Lindenhurst at a low bid price of $3,690. It will replace a 14-year-old broom now in use.

Man charged in assaults

A Lindenhurst man, 29, has been arrested and charged with assaulting the family's babysitter. He has been charged with aggravated criminal sexual abuse against a 13-year-old girl.

The assaults took place on three separate occasions in March when the girl was babysitting and the wife was not at home.

Lindenhurst police were informed of the situation when the girl told a school counselor of what had happened.

New station planned

Amoco Oil Co. wants to construct a new service station on the northwest corner of Grand Ave. and Deep Lake Rd. Since the access drives do not conform to Lake County Highway Dept. specifications, the company has been asked to revise its plans.

Construction is scheduled to begin this summer with completion in early fall.

Urges building bond for county violators

Dist. 4 County Board Rep. Charlotte Kiesgen said she is going to push for adoption of an ordinance requiring performance bonds for habitual violators of county building regulations.

"Hitting the chronic violators in the pocketbook might bring about compliance. It's worth a try," declared Kiesgen who represents Grant, Antioch, Avon and Lake Villa townships.

Kiesgen cited Bill Kent, owner of a Stanton Point taven and entertainment center, as an example of a chronic violator who might comply with ordinances with a bond at stake.

Kent has been in constant hot water with the County Building Dept. while remodeling, dredging channels, dumping dredged material and berming on his lakefront property.

"His style is to hurry up and do a job whether or not he has a permit, gets red-tagged or is in violation. When the work is done he dares the county to do something," Kiesgen declared.

Dist. 4 has a disproportionately large number of complaints, aides in the County Building Office report.

Kiesgen said she has a hefty file of complaints and photos on violations at Kent's place, Juke Box Saturday Night, which is being turned over to the County Board Building and Health Committee. Kent also has ignored a cease and desist order from the Army Corps of Engineers, according to Kiesgen.

Shallow dive leaves swimmer paralyzed

A young father is fighting for his life in Northwestern Memorial Hospital after injuring his spine severely in a Memorial Day holiday weekend swimming accident.

At midweek, Robert Schreider, 31, remained in critical condition after undergoing surgery Tuesday.

Schreider was hurt, according to sheriff's deputies, when he dived into water only a foot deep while attending an outing Sunday, May 29, at Fox Lake.

He was attended by the Antioch and Lake Villa rescue squads and removed to Victory Hospital, Waukegan, where the extent of his injuries were determined. He then was taken to the Chicago hospital.

Schreider, who resides at Duck Lake Woods with his wife and three children, is employed by an Ingleside heating and air conditioning firm.

The accident left Schreider paralyzed from the neck down. Doctors said they would be unable to determine the extent of paralysis until after Schreider's removal from intensive care.

Arrest nine on weekend

Nine persons were arrested in a Memorial Day weekend crackdown on drinking and driving teens in Lake County. This was part of a statewide crackdown at locations authorities feel is a problem with persons going across the state line to purchase and consume alcohol illegally.

Illinois State Police in cooperation with Lake County Sheriff's deputies set up a roadblock for safety check purposes at Rte. 83 and Petite Lake Rd. in Lake Villa Twp. on May 27 starting about 11 p.m.

Officers stopped each vehicle to check driver's licenses, for intoxicated motorists and for equipment violations. Between 11 p.m. and when the blockade was removed at 4 a.m. a total of nine persons had been arrested, two of them for driving while intoxicated.

Authorities said the unannounced highway checkpoints will be established periodically.

How does local day care measure up for parents looking for openings?

Day care is a mess. Working parents don't know where to take their children because the places they want to take them to are full up. Does that mean parents end up putting their children where they don't want them to go?

Ass't. Director of the Round Lake Area Park Dist. Linda Wiltberger said, "We have a long waiting list. We can't accommodate everyone. We opened our center in July, 1987, and we were filled in three weeks." She added, "The need is growing." Round Lake's park district has a waiting list of 60 for full-time. The North Chicago park district also has a waiting list.

Editor's note: This is the first in a series on day care in Lake County, and is put together through the combined efforts of the editors of the Lakeland newspapers.

Kitty's Kiddie Korner in Wauconda, licensed for 40, is at capacity and has a waiting list. My Tree House in Lindenhurst is a state-licensed, day-care center for up to 50 students. It is at capacity and has a waiting list. The Montessori Learning Center in Lake Villa has a waiting list. Lake Villa Twp. pre-school has a waiting list until 1991. And so it goes. But, where do the children go?

Yes, day care is a mess. Lucille Doherty, of the Peppermint Stick Pre-School in Grayslake, said, "There are not enough (instructors) available in terms of what the state requires." She cited low pay as the reason. Diane Sorenson of the Red Balloon Nursery School, Inc. in Lake Villa voiced the same complaint. One park district spokesperson said that allowing employees' children in the program helps them to get good employees. So, there isn't enough day care and those that are in operation are complaining about qualified help.

Tender loving care

The Round Lake Area Park District offers a variety of programs through its Child Development Center. Here in the Teddy Bear class, a definite grandmother figure Eleanor Dallas, assists teacher Peggy Dohr (not pictured). The Teddy Bear class is for 15 to 24 month-old toddlers. The room has a cheerful, colorful atmosphere. Unfortunately they have a waiting list.

It is the complaint of a parent who goes to the day-care center of their choice, finds it full, and asks for a referral. "No list of creditable ones, at present," is one standard reply. Others who are asked for referrals are hesitant to refer parents to individuals in the area, not knowing who, what or where they are. All of which leaves the parent out in the cold, or in this case, in the same mess the parent started out in.

Where do these parents take their children?

Some day-care programs are full, some almost, and some are not. What can parents who are in the process of looking expect to pay and get for their hard-earned money? A survey of 25 day-care centers in Lake County point to typical charges.

The village of Antioch offers summer day-camp and a pre-school through the Parks and Recreation Dept. Also in Antioch are two chains which also operate elsewhere in Lake County; Peppermint Stick Pre-School and My Tree House.

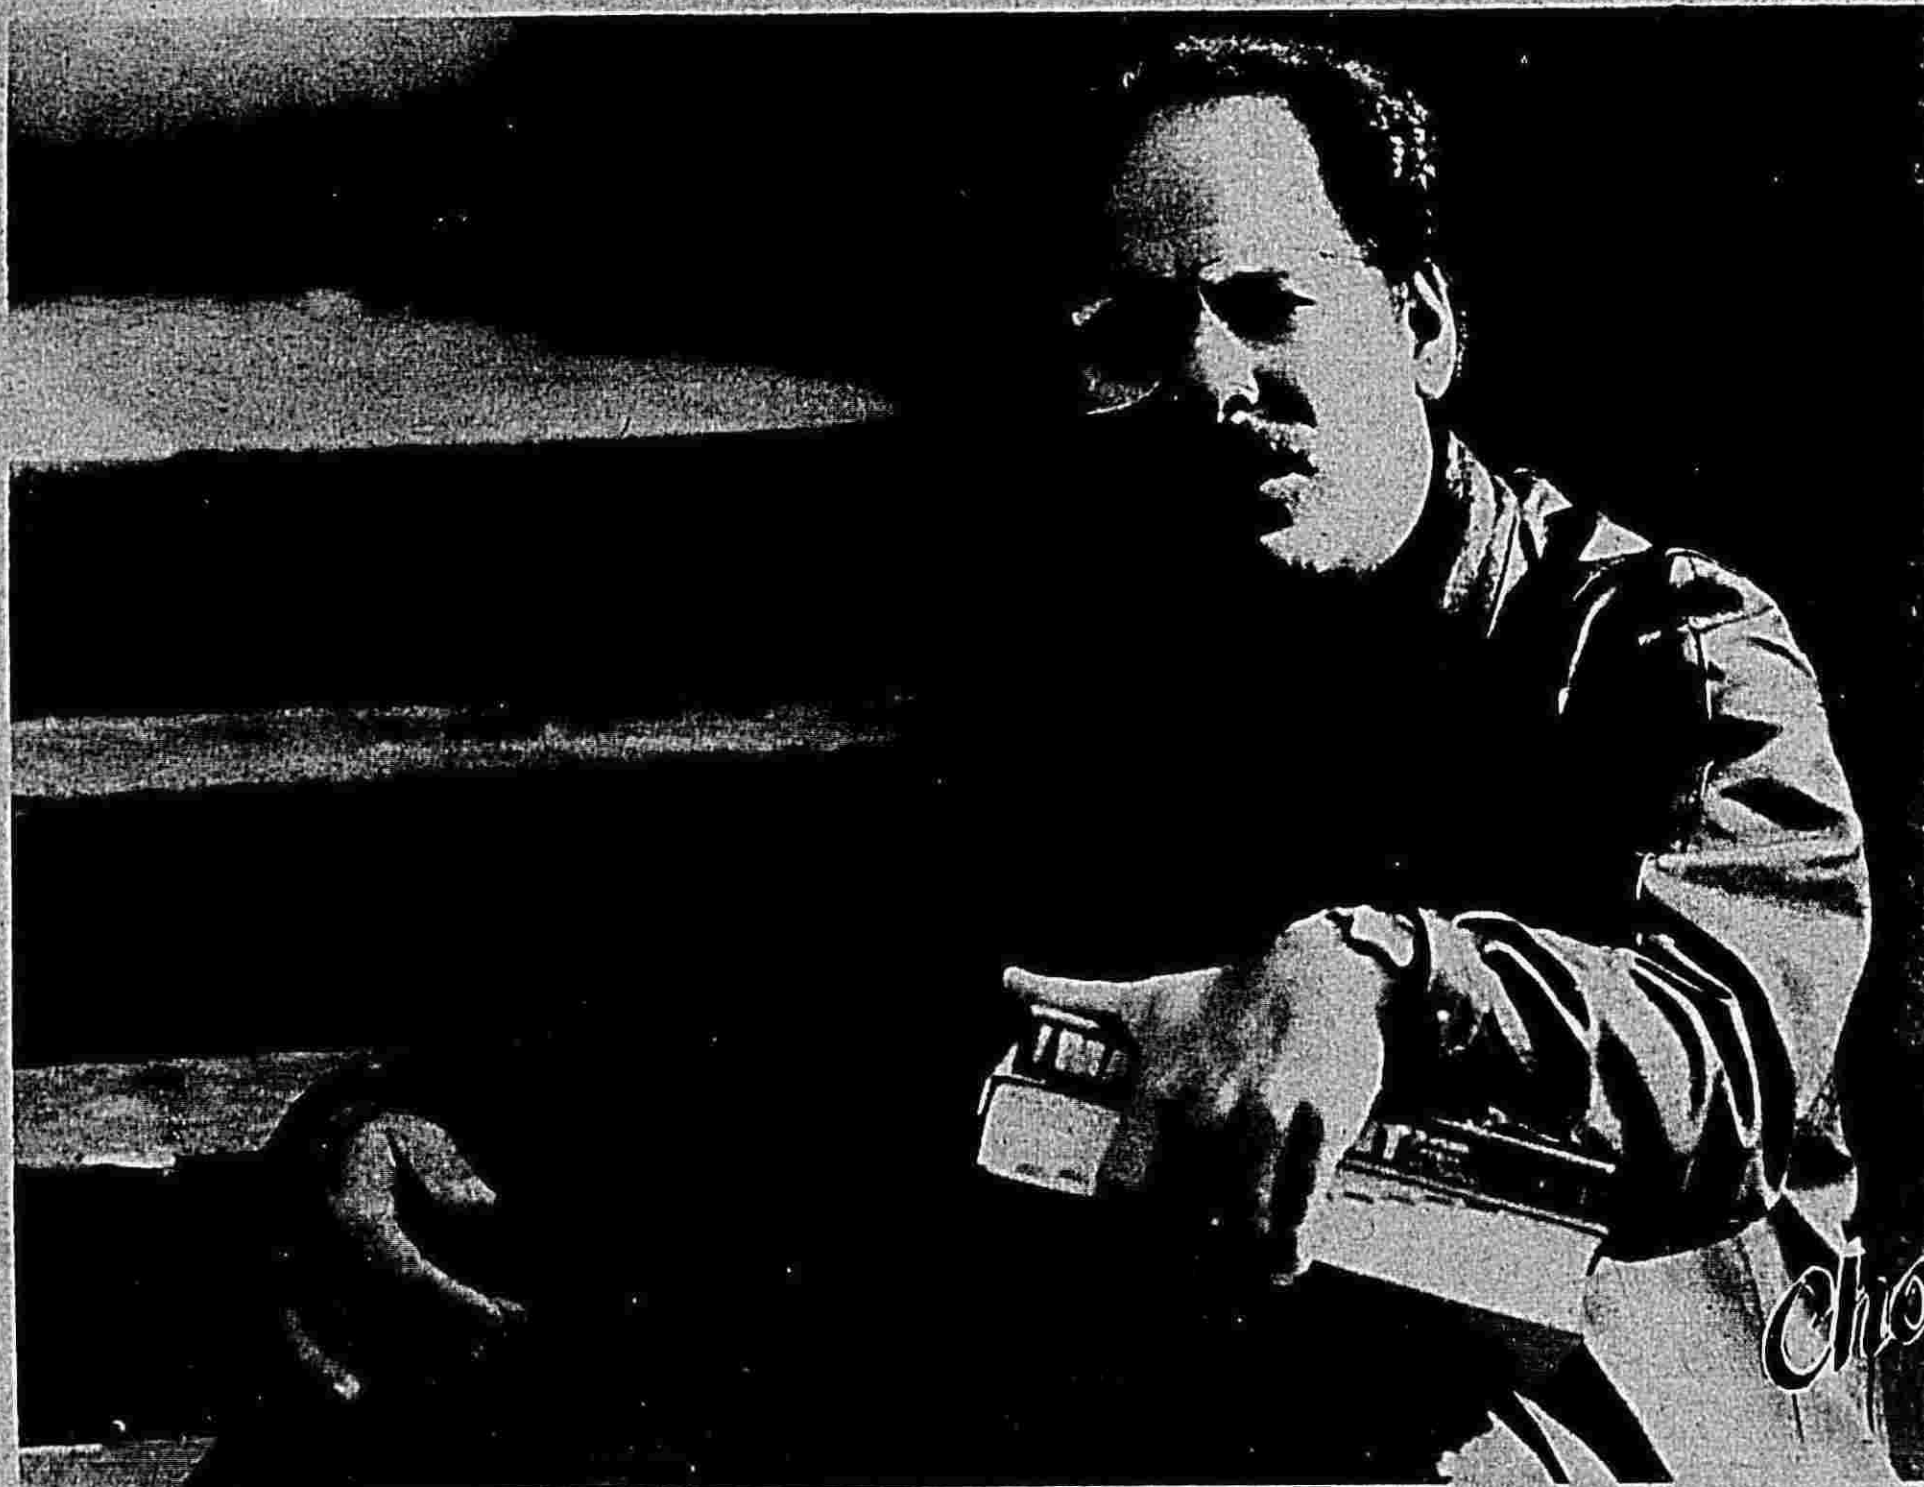

Antioch's summer day camp operates rain or shine at Scout House, (312) 395-1000. There are five or six counselors for the sixty 3 to 12-year-olds. The cost for five days is; first child in one family is $50, second child is $35, and the third child is $30. Juice is supplied, children bring their own lunch, and have use of the pool. There are openings for Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Enrollment is closed for Tuesday and Thursday.

Antioch's pre-school program Camp Crayon has three teachers for the thirty, two to five-year-olds. It does not run in the summer. It is at Scout House, 9 a.m. to noon, on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, for $45 for each six-week session.

Peppermint Stick Pre-Schools are located in Antioch, Grayslake, Gurnee, and Round Lake Beach. Their hours are 6:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Two to six-year-olds are enrolled at $69 for a five-day week.

The award is given in recognition of athletic success during the fall and winter sports seasons. Spring and summer sports are not eligible for this award.

tyville. Guest speakers at the dinner were Wayne Larive, the radio voice of the Chicago Bears and Gordy Galespy, head football coach at St. Francis College. Larive spoke on the importance of a winning attitude and Galespy discussed the advantages of athletic participation.

"It was one of the greatest moments of my life and an honor I will never forget," Reitz said. Reitz, a three-year varsity starter in football was named all East Suburban Catholic Conference on both offense and defense.

Reitz will attend Winona State University and major in criminal law enforcement.

Troop 92 wins Lakes Dist. Meet

It wasn't unusual for Antioch's Boy Scouts of America Troop 92 (with members from Lake Villa and Lindenhurst) to capture top positions at the Lakes Dist. meet four of the past five years and they also took second place during three of those years.

But competition is stronger at the annual Northeast Illinois Council First Aid meet which hosts each of the seven district's first, second and third place winners. The Northeast Illinois Council consists of over 100 troops and covers eastern Lake County.

At previous council meets, Troop 92 has tied for first place and won second place. This May the troop finally reached its long time goal of winning the Council First Aid Meet.

The council meet was conducted at Mundelein High School under the watchful eyes of Great Lakes Naval personnel who served as judges. Troop 92's Cobra and Wolves patrols participated in the run-off competition.

The three simulated problems given to all patrols were based on actual accidents to which area rescue squads responded such as a seizure victim falling and accidentally stabbing another person, a sun stroke victim, and an auto collision with a power line.

Patrols were judged on the basis of problem reporting, problem diagnosis, problem treatment, patrol leadership and patrol team work.

When judges tallied the scores, Troop 92's Cobra Patrol captured first place and the Wolves Patrol seventh. Members of the Cobra Patrol included Patrol Leader J.L. Bruski, Dave Stachel, Dan Weston and Steve Goetzelman.

The Wolves Patrol included Patrol Leader Brian Paschke, Matt Aschbacher, Dave Baranov, Dan Ravens, and Matt VanDrush.

After the event, one of the judges complimented Troop 92 Scouts for their knowledge and politeness. Troop 92 leaders who accompanied the Scouts include Scoutmaster Dick Weston, Assistant Scoutmasters Bernie Dost and Harold Clark and Committee Member Al VanDrush.

In accordance with Troop 92's victory tradition, the group treated itself to lunch, this time at Antioch's Pizza Plus. Troop 92 wishes to express its gratitude to members of Antioch's Rescue Squad for volunteering their time to train the Scouts and to Troop 92's sponsor Loyal Order of Moose Lodge 525.

Scouts tops in first aid

Antioch Boy Scout Troop 92 Scouts J. Bruski, left, Dave Stachel and Dan Weston practice first aid techniques on 'victim' Steve Goetzelman in preparation for first place victory at Northeast Illinois Council First Aid Meet.

Hahn no longer cage coach

After a special hearing before the Antioch High School Board of Education, ACHS sophomore basketball Coach Norm Hahn was informed that he would not be coaching sophomore basketball next year. Hahn will continue to coach track.

Reports have numerous complaints against Hahn and the way he conducted his basketball coaching program. He himself said one of the biggest complaints was, "that my yelling embarrassed the players and the school."

Millburn board increases status for reading teacher

At its May meeting, the Millburn Board of Education received a recommendation, based on educational and financial rationale from the finance committee, to increase the sixth-tenth junior high reading position to full-time for the 1988-89 school year.

The move creates five sections for the junior high. The grades would include two sections of sixth grade, one section of seventh grade and two sections of eighth grade. This decision eliminates the combination class at the junior high.

Teacher presentations were given by Rohona Polite and Sandra Vanderstappen concerning the development and completion of a Special Education Handbook for the district. The Handbook was reviewed and accepted by the board.

In a related curriculum matter, Vanderstappen and Joanne Rathunde presented the board with their plans for the summer school program which will be held during late June and July.

The board approved a resolution to complete the sale of the second part of the building bonds which were approved in a November referendum by district voters.

Lyda Stevens was approved as treasurer as well as the cost of a bond to guarantee the money she has responsibility for.

The Millburn School Parent-Student Handbook for 1988-89 was reviewed and approved after a presentation concerning minor changes from last year's book.

The board voted to continue appraisal update of the property by a private firm and to continue affiliation with the Job Training Partnership Program for summer help.

Board members also decided to continue the affiliation with the Job Training Program for summer help.

Domek top art student

The Art Student of the Year, Ted Domek, was selected student of the month for Antioch High School. Domek has received several distinguished awards for his outstanding art work and dedication to the field.

Congratulations, Graduates of 1988

Mother, daughter earn data processing degrees

Earning a college degree takes a lot of individual effort. But at the College of Lake County (CLC), two graduates accepted their degrees with a partner. Graduation had a special meaning for these two students who shared and achieved a goal.

The CLC couples included a mother and daughter, Dolores and Karen Kavich, of Grayslake.

The mother and daughter team both received associate of applied science degrees in data processing. Both work at Kemper Insurance Co., in Long Grove, with mom working in programming and daughter in computer operations. Dolores earned her degree after 10 years of part-time attendance, while Karen graduated with the same degree after two years of full-time study.

Though these two attended school at the same time, they never took classes together or studied together. However, both share an interest and ability in math. Karen plans to attend Baral College and work towards a four-year degree.

"I think my daughter watched me attend school part-time all these years and that may have influenced her to complete her degree on a full-time basis," says Dolores. "But I'm thrilled even though it took me this long to finish. And I'm proud of Karen."

Dolores and Karen Kavich

Karen reciprocates the pride and is trying to convince her mother to join her at earning a four-year degree. "My mom really motivated me," Karen says. "Now I'm trying to motivate her to get a four-year degree."

Marian Hamlet

Grandmother, 70, gets college degree

Marian Hamlet was 60 years old when she decided, almost on a whim, to take a philosophy class offered by the College of Lake County (CLC) at the Highland Park Senior Center in 1978.

"It sounded enticing," the Deerfield resident said.

Today, the 70-year-old great-grandmother is a 1988 honors graduate of CLC with an associate of arts degree. She accomplished this by taking classes offered through CLC's Southlake Educational Center at area extension sites such as senior centers and Deerfield High School.

"I really enjoy the give and take in class," Hamlet said. "Being old, I'm out of touch with young people. But, in class, I get to hear a younger viewpoint and others get to hear an older viewpoint."

Hamlet usually took just one class a semester during her 10 years of study. It wasn't until she realized she had accumulated about 42 credit hours that she decided to go for a degree. A counselor at the Southlake Center in Highland Park helped her plan studies so that all her courses could be taken at convenient extension sites.

"The Southlake Center is an excellent service," said Hamlet, who worked in supervisory management at the Great Lakes Naval base for more than 22 years. "You can register right there, buy your books and get all the help you need. It's very practical."

Hamlet was also able to take advantage of CLC's special tuition rates for seniors, which allow in-district residents 65 or older to take credit classes for free if space is available. Students 60 to 64 receive reduced tuition rates.

One of the classes Hamlet especially enjoyed was an environmental biology class that took students on several field trips to beaches, bogs, prairies and parks.

"The younger students really helped me out," she recalled. "They always checked on me to see how I was doing."

Even with degree in hand, Hamlet plans to continue her education and has already signed up for a class this fall.

"Getting my degree was extremely worthwhile," Hamlet said, "it kept me going."

On hand to see Hamlet graduate at the CLC ceremony last month was her son, who flew in from California.

"When I signed up for that first class, my son jokingly told me if I got a degree, he'd be here for graduation," Hamlet laughed. "He kept his promise."

Robert Tan Li

Be happy, says valedictorian

Graduating Lake Zurich High School valedictorian Robert Tan Li said, "Do what makes you happy." His advice to his fellow seniors is the advice he follows.

Li intends to major in chemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), focusing on pre-med. Li would like to go on to finish his education at medical school, and is aiming at a career as a general practitioner.

His honors and scholarships include the National Honor Society, the National Merit

Commendation, the Illinois State Scholarship, the Lions Club, the Lake Zurich Chamber of Commerce and the North Community Hospital State scholarship.

Athletically inclined, Li participated in baseball for three years and basketball for four years. Li will umpire for the girls' youth softball league this summer, and in the fall would like to join one of MIT's intramural league.

Li said his most enjoyable high school times were "Being around my friends."

She won't miss the homework

Graduating Lake Zurich High School Salutatorian Kendra Michelle Ward said she is going to miss, "Everything except the homework. I am going to miss my friends the most because none of my close friends are going with me."

Ward graduates with high honors and plans to attend the University of Illinois, Champaign, in the fall. She has not decided on a major, but her interests are in psychology and sociology. Eventually, she wants to continue on in school and receive her master's and doctorate degrees.

Scholastically, Ward has won numerous awards. She has received the Illinois State Scholar, Lions Club, and National Honor Society awards.

Ward has excelled at more than just academics. She also was on the school track team, gymnastic team and pom pom squad.

In addition to school activities, Ward has done some volunteer work for the Cancer Society. She participated in the Kemper Bike-a-Thon where she helped raise and collect money for the event.

Ward's advice to her fellow seniors is: "Give everything a chance. And have fun this summer."

Michael Morgan

Scholar says, 'Seize the day'

Wauconda's valedictorian, Michael Charles Morgan, said, "It is not just my accomplishment (being valedictorian), it is a product of the labor of others."

A dedicated student, Morgan intends to enter the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., following graduation. His major and career goals are civil engineering.

Morgan was also given the title of co-president of the National Honor Society earlier in the year. Another honor was when he was chosen to be part of the practical experience in Governor's Boys' State.

In sports, Morgan has been a member of the soccer and basketball teams for four years and a member of the track team for two years. He also won a student athlete honor award sponsored by Milky Way.

Morgan feels no pressure about being valedictorian and said to his fellow seniors, "Seize all opportunities you have when presented with them."

'Here we go, again,' says salutatorian

Wauconda's salutatorian, James Ryan Christiansen, said, "Make the next four years of your life good because it is the rest of your life."

Christiansen will attend the University of Illinois-Champaign in the fall to major in finance. His college and life goals are to keep his grade point average high so he can get into the very best programs at school and to, eventually, get a good job.

Having been honored with the title of vice president of the National Honor Society and being on the high honor role are two things Christiansen enjoyed while in high school.

Christiansen also participated in athletics as a member of the tennis and soccer teams for four years and was on the basketball team for two years. The most enjoyable moment of his high school career was when the Wauconda soccer team beat Lake Zurich, to win the co-championship in 1988.

Christiansen would like to leave his fellow seniors with this message: "Here we go, again."

Top Grant scholars tell all about school

by JOE SOULAK

This year's graduating class at Grant High School has three valedictorians and one salutatorian.

The three top students with 5.0 averages are Valerie Huckstadt, who plans attend the University of Illinois, Champaign, to major in accounting; Tammy Loring, who has won an appointment to the Air Force Academy for pilot training and engineering studies; and Anne L'Abbe, who will attend the College of Lake County on a scholarship to study accounting and business.

Salutatorian is Tamie Trainer, with a 4.96 average, who will attend Illinois Wesleyan University at Bloomington to take a general course of studies.

All four are members of the National Honor Society chapter at the high school. The four have been extremely active while in high school. Huckstadt has been on pom pon squad for three years and captain this year, on the gymnastics team for three years and a member of the Students Against Drunk Driving chapter. Loring is an athletic scholar with four years of volleyball and all-conference selection, basketball four years and all-conference guard, softball four years where she played on the conference champion softball team this year and in her sophomore year and, in addition, served as president of the National Honor Society chapter. L'Abbe has been a member of the band for four years and president this year, the choir for three years and honors chorus this year and participated in the last four school musicals. Trainer has been a member of the Testing, Engineering and Applied Math and Science (TEAMS) club for two years and received a letter of commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Foundation.

What did these students like best about their four years of high school? "All the activities like the homecoming parade with the float building, games and dance and Student Government," Huckstadt said. "Athletics, I liked the competition because sports builds leadership and responsibility," Loring said. "I liked the weekends where you could socialize at weekend dances, go to football games or go anywhere with friends you like to the movies or Great America," L'Abbe said. "I liked going dancing with friends," Trainer said. "I also liked biology class."

What did these students dislike about high school? "Irresponsible teachers and counselors who don't treat you like a responsible person able to make your own decisions," Huckstadt said. "Limits on how much additional study or work you could do in a subject area because of lack of teachers, equipment or course offering," Loring said. "The teachers who think you live only for school and have no personal life or personal interest in you," L'Abbe said. "Getting up early (little after 6 a.m.) and unnecessary advice from anyone, teachers included," Trainer said.

Name your best teacher or subject, the students were asked. "Business accounting with Larry Garlanger because I like to work with paper and numbers," Huckstadt said. "Mathematics for 12 years because it came easy to me and was taught by such teachers as Dwayne Atkins and John Seiler," Loring said. "Musicals and the entire music department who lead us in such plays as 'Grease' and '42nd Street' and teachers like James Ring," L'Abbe said. "I liked math class and teachers like Atkins, too, because I learned a lot," Trainer said.

Grayslake High's brightest win awards

Grayslake Community High School seniors Kevin Reidel and Victoria Bellisario are the valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively and will both give addresses to the student body at the commencement exercises June 9.

And not surprisingly, the two students came home with an armful of awards during the school's honor night ceremonies last week.

Board of Education member Jim West praised the proceedings at the 42nd annual affair, saying they are an important way to recognize students.

For Bellisario, she won awards for such categories as: outstanding senior contribution to the Orpheum Theatre Company, the English Department awards for the outstanding English student as well as the Presidential Academic Fitness award.

Earlier this semester, she showed the Grayslake Woman's Club some of her artwork as an art scholarship winner. This year she won the art purchase award, given by the high school's art department. She also won a scholastic art award regional certificate of merit, given by the art department.

She is a four-year member of the National Honor Society.

Reidel may be known for his participation with the Rams' tennis team. And he did win the school's sportsmanship award.

While most of the school prepared for prom at Country Squire restaurant, Reidel was starting to prepare his commencement speech.

Being the top student in the Class of '88 has not gone to the senior's head. "I have not thought about it much," he said.

Reidel won a Marquette University Scholarship but will be attending University of Illinois. He said he does not plan to continue his tennis career.

Reidel shared the outstanding sportsmanship award with Nancy Bremner.

Reidel's musical talents were recognized when he was the winner of the prestigious John Phillip Sousa award.

The mathematics department also presented him with an honor along with Tom Grimes.

Reidel, like Bellisario, is a Presidential Academic Fitness Award winner.

Several seniors won

Victoria Bellisario

honors in the scholarships and awards category.

For example, Shannon Dvorscak won the College of Lake County Merit Recognition Scholarship; Grimes, David Hendrickson, Celeste Hafner and Beverly Hines won the CLC Fellow Scholarship.

Kim Dickens won for the Northern Illinois University Scholarship for Drama and the Women's Western Golf Foundation Scholarship.

Cum Laude graduates in Lake Forest society

FH who had already been inducted into Cum Laude are: Nell Bruen, Maeva Callan, Jennie Reese, Amy Richmond, and Henrietta Rozloczyna.

Students, faculty choose Cancellare, Allen No. 1

At press time, Antioch High School had not yet selected 1988's valedictorian and salutatorian, but three factions had chosen ACHS's top senior boy and girl and the "top citizen" of the senior class.

Rich Cancellare received two of these awards when he was chosen top senior boy and top citizen. Cancellare is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Cancellare of Lindenhurst. He showed the leadership and academic prowess that helped win the awards by being a member of the National Honor Society for both junior and senior years.

He also showed leadership by playing on the school's soccer team, serving as its captain as both a junior and senior. His well-rounded character also came to the fore when he was on the ACHS track team all four years.

Eleanor Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Allen of Antioch, won her title as ACHS's top senior girl by spending three years on the pom pon squad and being active in student government.

She also participated in the girls' athletic program with volleyball her specialty.

Cancellare will be pursuing a career in aeronautical engineering at Texas A & M and Allen is planning to attend the College of Commerce at the University of Illinois at Champagne-Urbana, working towards a career in business administration.

Toft: Long can get publicity for campaign by buying ads

Antioch Atty. Robert Long, who has filed a lawsuit against Antioch's Mayor Ray Toft in the name of the village for alleged misuse of village funds in using village mailing permit for mailing 7,000 letters endorsing Jim Fields and Fred Popp for the Lake County Board in the primary election, still maintains that although Toft claims he did not authorize the use of the village permit, and has paid the mailing bill, Toft abused the mailing permit.

Norm Biller of Biller press, the company that printed and mailed the endorsements, has claimed all the blame for the "mistake."

Toft says that this whole nuisance lawsuit has arisen so that Long, who is the Democratic candidate for states attorney against Fred Foreman in the fall election, can get free publicity at Toft's expense.

"I feel Mr. Long could find another way to get publicity for his political campaign, like buying adds," said Toft.

Long has also filed another suit against Toft for retaining the firm of Kenneth Clark, Associates, to handle the case.

Long claims that since Clark is the village's attorney that, "by representing both Toft and the village, Clark's firm is involved in a conflict of interest and since the suit seeks to return moneys to the village coffers, and by representing the defendant (Toft), the law firm will of necessity be seeking to avoid the payment of funds to its client the village."

The suit went before Circuit Court Judge Charles F. Scott who overruled the objections of Clark's associate, Robert J. Smart, entered an order disqualifying Clark from further representation of the mayor and gave the mayor 21 days to retain another attorney.

Toft said, "by the time we reach the courtroom, I will have another attorney."

Township meetings

Meetings of the Lake Villa Twp. board are held the second and fourth Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the township hall, 37908 N. Fairfield Rd. Supervisor Dorothy Thompson invites all interested persons to attend.

Doctor studies AIDS

According to an article in the latest edition of Antioch High School's "Tom Tom," written by Becky Johns, Antioch High School journalism student, a physician in Antioch has requested that the Federal Food and Drug Administration give him a permit to continue his studies on the treatment of AIDS with insulin potentiation therapy.

Dr. Stephen Ayre, of Antioch's Primay Care Clinic on Lake St. says that he believes in this treatment but has to get permission from the FDA to continue studying the treatment by using it on humans.

Ayre says that experiments on humans have already been made in Mexico, resulting in the reduction of AIDS symptoms in those suffering from the disease.

According to Ayre, members of the medical profession who oppose this treatment do so because they feel that insulin is too dangerous a drug to administer to patients who do not have diabetes.

BEST FOOT FORWARD

FROM THE OFFICE OF
DR. PAUL ABLER

KEEP THEM DRY

Shoes are a dark and warm environment for the feet. If moisture is present, it's open house for bacteria, fungi, mold, yeast and viruses which cause a variety of ailments.

One is bromhidrosis, the medical term for foot odor so strong that a prompt cure is usually sought. Athlete's foot is the familiar name for fungus-caused irritating skin cracks between toes.

Plantar warts, on the soles and toe bottoms, are caused by a virus. The warts, often mistaken for corns, can be very painful.

Trouble prevention lies in keeping the feet dry. If perspiration is a problem, apply powder and wear thick, cushioned socks of absorbent natural fabrics or of polypropylene, which wicks moisture away from the skin.

If bromhidrosis, athlete's foot or plantar warts develop, a podiatrist's care can bring relief.

Lake County

The College of Lake County in cooperation with the Illinois Dept. of Public Health, will be offering Food Service Sanitation (FSM 113) beginning June 8. The course is part of the new food service program now offered at CLC. Training for food service supervisors is the best way to teach personnel about the dangers of improper food preparation. Individuals who need to obtain a state of Illinois food service sanitation license can meet requirements through enrollment in this class. Food service sanitation is a 16 classroom hour course for owners and supervisors of food service facilities. The class will be offered on Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Grayslake campus. In order to receive the State of Illinois certification, students will have to pass a test that will be given at the end of the semester with a grade of 75 percent or higher.

Grayslake

Michael Biarnesen was accepted into Term IV of the evening MBA (Master of Business Administration) Program at the Lake Forest Graduate School of Management. Biarnesen, who is supervisor of Pharmaceutical Tablet Manufacturing at Abbott Laboratories, lives in Grayslake. He received his bachelor of science degree in engineering from the University of Illinois in Champaign/Urbana. As a student at the Lake Forest Graduate School of Management, he joins the other working managers who are obtaining their advanced degree in business management at night or on Saturday. The school, located in both Lake Forest and Schaumburg, also offers a master of science in management program.

Lake Bluff

The Northern Illinois Assn. of Personnel Administrators (NIAPA) will be holding its June luncheon meeting on Thursday, June 9 at 11:30 a.m. at the Harrison Conference Center, Lake Bluff. John Koziol of Bowen and Associates will be speaking on "Becoming A Better Conversationalist." Further information can be obtained by contacting Sue Geiger at (312) 360-4170, prior to June 6 for registration.

Waukegan

Camosy Inc. of Waukegan, general contractor, has been named one of the top 400 contractors in the nation, according to Engineering News-Record magazine. $46.2 million in sales for 1987 was posted by Camosy which credited this success to public works contracting being on the rise with water and waste water treatment plants, educational facilities, and military projects at Fort Sheridan Army Base and Great Lakes Naval Base.

Deerfield

Baxter Healthcare Corporation announced that it has agreed to purchase from Abbott Laboratories a glove manufacturing plant in Spartanburg, South Carolina. Price and terms were not disclosed. The transaction is expected to close within a week. The plant, which has not been in operation since November 1986, will employ 75 to 100 people in the production of latex procedure gloves. Manufacturing is expected to begin in the third quarter. Baxter, through its domestic and international subsidiaries, develops, manufactures and markets a diversified line of health-care products, systems and services. The company will seek stockholder approval May 17 to change its name to Baxter International.

Cashman believes fitness

Mary Ann Cashman is a firm believer in giving athletes the proper chance to exercise their talent. Cashman and business partner Dave Vanderhagen have taken an enterprising idea and turned it into an opportunity for children and teens to refine their gymnastic abilities for competition, or just for pure fun.

Since September of 1986, Cashman and Vanderhagen have set up gymnastic programs for several park districts in Lake County.

"It was our goal to give a quality gymnastic program," Cashman says. "We want to keep it fun. We have a few seven-year-olds that are good, and we keep their hopes up—but we just want them to have fun."

"I can't say gymnastics is better than any other sport. Sports activities, on the whole, are good for kids because if they aren't bored with life it'll keep them out of trouble. Kids, physically, should be more involved and their parents should encourage them."

The gymnastics programs now available at park districts in Vernon Hills, Mundelein, Lake Zurich and Gurnee have the quality one can find in a "private gym club," Cashman says. The programs train 250 kids, ages two to 14, and even foster a gymnastics team that competes in United States Gymnastics Federation (USGF) competitions.

"The team practices in Vernon Hills because that program meets three times a week. We can offer reasonable prices through the park districts. Costs are low, going this way," she says.

Cashman and Vanderhagen contract with park districts to set up a program schedule to offer classes at park district rates, hire and train the coaches and sometimes even purchase the gymnastics equipment.

Cashman says sports programs are more important now than ever because so many kids are in poor physical shape. "I've seen little kids who could barely climb onto a balance beam that's two inches off the floor. It's hard for me to understand that so many kids have a lack of muscle tone, since my family has always been athletic."

Although the USGF does not require gymnastic coaches to be certified, coaches hired by Cashman and Vanderhagen are certified within six months. Both entrepreneurs train gymnasts in the program.

"I would call ours a safety-conscious program," Cashman says. "And it's for all age groups. Kids can start as young as two. We have teenagers who train with us, in their off season, from high school competition. We have many seven- and eight-year-olds."

Company promotes two in hospital products division

Abbott Laboratories has announced promotions of two of its employees. John V. Ward has been promoted to marketing manager for intravenous equipment and irrigation systems in the hospital products division (HPD). James C. Boylan, Ph.D., has been promoted to director of scientific affairs and research and development in that same division.

Previously, Ward was HPD district sales manager in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. He joined Abbott in 1980 as a professional hospital specialist in Missouri.

Ward holds a B.S. degree from Southern Illinois University in Carbondale. He is relocating with his wife Lynn and their two daughters from Oklahoma to Abbott's Lake County headquarters.

Boylan has been HPD director of scientific affairs services since joining Abbott in 1983. He holds a B.S. degree in pharmacy from Ohio Northern University and M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in industrial pharmacy from Purdue University in Indiana.

Independent operator not afraid of Jewel

An independent supermarket operator doesn't like the idea of facing a major chain as competition across the street, but he says he's ready to "slug it out", if that's the way things work out.

Jerry Ming, operator of Jerry's Parkway in Fox Lake and Grayslake, appeared before the Fox Lake Village Board to outline plans for expansion of the Fox Lake store, located on Rte. 12 across from vacant land being considered for commercial development.

Ming has the inside track to put up a supermarket at Rtes. 45 and 120, Wildwood, as part of a commercial development envisioned by Esper Petersen, Warren Twp. developer.

Members of the Fox Lake Economic Development Commission have indicated their approval of a Jewel/Osco complex similar to one opened last year in Wauconda.

Ming said he was interested in finding out how Fox Lake officials feel about his plans to expand the existing 21,700 square foot store—originally built 20 years ago as an A&P—and to build a car wash on land he hopes to purchase. Ming envisions a $300,000 improvement.

Fox Lake officials stated their support for expansion of the store with the adjoining car wash—if the car wash could be entered off Christopher Way.

Ming said he invested $100,000 in improvements in the Fox Lake store when he purchased it two years ago. He formerly operated two food markets in Wisconsin and Grayslake before expanding to Fox Lake.

of starting young if an Olympic or competitive career is the goal, and says a child should progress at his or her own pace.

"I've seen a lot of kids burn out by the age of nine. It's important for kids to learn and grow from it, but they have to progress in classes with kids of similar abilities."

Cashman says the program she and Vanderhagen set up are more progressive than most park district gymnastic programs held for 16 weeks in a year, and are divided by age, not by ability.

"Dave and I would both love to open our own gym," she says. "There are complaints about school and park district programs. They have school holidays and vacations when the gym is closed, there's a shortage of space, etc. But opening our own gym would be a good four years away."

Small businesses lash out against more tax increases

The words "tax increase" are almost guaranteed to receive a negative response from an Illinois small-business owner, according to the latest survey of the state's small-business community.

A supplemental ballot of nearly 14,000 Illinois small businesses released by the National Federation of Independent Business shows that companies are overwhelmingly opposed to any additional tax increases.

According to John Davis, state director of NFIB/Illinois, 84 percent of the companies polled are against the idea of raising personal income taxes to increase the state's educational budget. In addition, 75 percent of the companies polled are against the state imposing a two- to three-cent gasoline tax increase to improve highways and education.

"Illinois small-business owners simply do not feel the state is justified in raising taxes and making the cost of doing business here even more expensive than it currently is," Davis said. "Last year, Gov. Thompson tried to pass a $1.6 billion tax proposal. That plan was defeated, and the state didn't collapse."

The findings echo the NFIB ballot results of Illinois small businesses released last year. Davis noted that 85 percent of the companies polled in 1987 were against the state raising license plate fees from $48 to $65.

The same percentage of companies also opposed the state extending sales tax to such services as medical, legal, accounting and other professional services.

"Every time we turn around, it seems like we're facing another tax increase," Davis said. "Illinois small-business owners are tired of it. One of our members summed it up best by saying, 'If we gave the state every dollar we earned, it still wouldn't be enough.'"

Gurnee National Bank introduces Money Program

A new educational program has been announced by Vernon B. Paddock, Cashier of Gurnee National Bank. The program, entitled YOUR CHECKING ACCOUNT, is being made available without cost to the Warren Township High School for students to learn the techniques and responsibilities associated with maintaining a personal checking account. Each kit includes a supply of checks, deposit slips, bank statements and related reference material. After learning how to open an account, keep their checkbook records and reconcile the monthly statement, students will actually maintain their own checking account for a simulated eight month period. Additional banking services are also incorporated throughout the training program.

These include the use of certified checks, stop payment orders, pre-authorized payments, ATM banking and other services. The materials are designed not only to teach an important aspect of money management but also correct poor check-writing habits

Renting a car in Europe

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Want to set your own pace on that European vacation? Would you like to stay in country inns instead of downtown hotels? How about lunch at a roadside cafe rather than a city restaurant? Touring Europe by rental car may be for you.

While the roads in Europe may not be up to the standards of the U.S. (some secondary roads are better suited to donkey carts than automobiles), you're going to have the opportunity to visit villages, country estates, and even castles that others only see from 30,000 feet. No problem with those extra purchases made along the way. Just throw them in the trunk.

Now for some practical advice.

Arrange your car rental with your travel agent before you leave. Renting a car in a foreign country after a nine-hour flight is the wrong time to try to decipher a rental car contract. There are also many fly/drive and rental packages that may save you money. You're guaranteed a rental rate regardless of the exchange rate when you arrive.

Other tips. Check the traffic laws of the countries in which you expect to drive. For instance, in Rome you may drive through a red light if there is no oncoming traffic. Seat belts must be worn by front seat occupants (none of whom can be children). Blowing your horn in some cities could get you a ticket.

On the subject of tickets, European police can exact, on the spot, fines for violations. (Tourists are, however, rarely stopped by European police).

Rental cars in Britain may not be allowed out of that country. Insurance costs make it prohibitive. You would also find yourself on the continent with the steering wheel on the wrong side.

Gas stations are few. Fill up whenever you're below half-full. Also, find out what grade the car you are renting takes. There could be as many as four from which to choose.

An international driver's license is available through any AAA office, but is not needed. Your U.S. license, along with your passport, will be all you need. (Make sure your license hasn't expired, though.)

Sheriff arrests four for drugs

Lake County Sheriff Clinton O. Grinnell said four Lake County residents were arrested on narcotics charges May 20 to culminate two separate investigations performed by the Sheriff's Special Investigative Unit and the Criminal Investigation Division.

At approximately 5:15 that day sheriff's deputies executed a search warrant for a residence located at 36047 N. Rte. 45, Lake Villa. There they arrested a Donald W. Jones, 31, and a Donald A. Kaatz, 34, of 25387 W. Rte. 134, Ingleside. Both were in the process of cutting and packaging approximately 1½ ounces of cocaine at the time of the search.

"The cocaine seized has an approximate street value of $5,000, and both subjects were charged with one count each of unlawful possession of a controlled substance over 15 grams, a class I felony," Grinnell said.

"Additional charges involving firearms and cannabis are pending. These arrests conclude approximately six weeks of investigation. This information stems from Operation Snowball," stated grinnell of a countywide drug sweep in February.

"Several tips to Lake County Crime Stoppers had been received pertaining to the activities of Jones and Kaatz that aided the Sheriff's Special Investigation Unit and Criminal Investigation Division in effecting the arrest," Grinnell said.

Later that evening at 8, members of the sheriff's office two investigative works executed another search warrant, this one for a residence at 531 Golfview Dr., Round Lake Beach. They seized approximately 4½ grams of cocaine packaged for resale. The two subjects arrested were identified as Hector A. Rodriguez, 27 years of age and Melissa A. Leroy, age 24, both of 531 Golfview Dr., Round Lake Beach.

"Both subjects were charged with possession and possession with intent to deliver cocaine," Grinnell stated.

Grinnell praised his officers for the good work in the investigation.

EYE CARE

News, views and questions about your eyes.

by Robert L. Epstein, M.D., Director
Illinois Center for Corrective Eye Surgery

QUESTION: Would you please explain to me what a cataract actually is?

ANSWER: A cataract is a clouding of the normally clear lens of the eye. This clouding, a natural aging of the lens in most cases, prevents light from passing through the lens to the back of the eye, or retina. Much like the lens of your camera focuses light on the film, the lens of your eye focuses light on the retina. If the front of your camera's lens becomes dirty or fogged, then the picture taken will be hazy or blurred.

Tragedy of the Tragedy

Shock and revulsion are the only acceptable responses of a normal human being to the unspeakable horror of a deranged woman gunning down a group of defenseless children in the supposed safety of their classroom. Why the terrible tragedy took place is much more difficult to explain than coming up with reasons how society could let such a horror occur.

Only a handful of professionals are equipped to explain why a troubled person tripped mentally and went on a rampage. Just about everyone, however, has an opinion on how the Winnetka shootings could have been prevented.

One of the ways to prevent harm to innocent school children is not, like Mundelein school officials were quick to consider, locking the school house doors. That is simplistic and only an emotional reaction, making about as much sense as doing away with school buses because children from time to time get hurt or killed in school bus accidents. Some of the more rational ways of curbing violence in public places coming out of the debate over the Winnetka tragedy are the call for gun control and improved police networking. These two suggestions make a great deal of sense.

The tragedy of the tragedy, of course, is that it takes an incident of catastrophic proportions to get reaction and, hopefully, action.

Why taxes go up, not down

Thanks to the Heartland Institute, a conservative organization advocating fiscal restraint and sensible government, we can offer readers an explanation why there seems to be a bias for increasing taxes rather than reducing taxes.

Heartland has this to say:

"It is always easier for a legislator to vote for a tax increase than against one. The reason is simple: A relatively small number of people receive substantial benefits from greater state spending, so they organize and contribute to legislators who vote for their benefits. On the other hand, people whose taxes pay for these benefits are usually unorganized, because they are so many in number that each individual pays only a small amount for any single government program. It is simply less costly for special interest groups to organize than it is for taxpayers at large.

"Consequently, the legislator who votes for a tax increase can be assured the financial support of various special interest groups. One who votes against a tax hike cannot be sure the average taxpayer will take notice and offer his support. The politician who votes against tax increases is taking the courageous position; the politician who supports tax increases is being cowardly.

Heartland is alarmed, as are a growing number of concerned citizens, that government spending in Illinois is outpacing growth in personal income. The state's budget problem is not that its tax revenues are growing too slowly, but that its spending is growing too quickly. Government in Illinois is spending money faster than taxpayers are able to earn it.

Tax hikers are on the loose again, even after a rebuff last year of $2.6 billion worth of increases over two years. "Doomsday" predictions didn't come true because of an increase in income tax revenues resulting from federal tax reform.

According to the institute, taxpayers should be asking themselves whether politicians advocating tax increases are speaking for them or the special interest groups and lobbyists who paid their campaign bills. Sounds like a question worth asking.

Not slacking on education

A phalanx of liberals, teachers' unions and Democrats has done a good job of painting Illinois as a state that has shunned its responsibilities toward education. The facts just don't support that picture.

— Illinois ranks seventh in the nation in its expenditure for elementary and secondary education from state and local sources.

— Illinois ranks tenth in the nation in the average salary paid elementary and secondary school teachers.

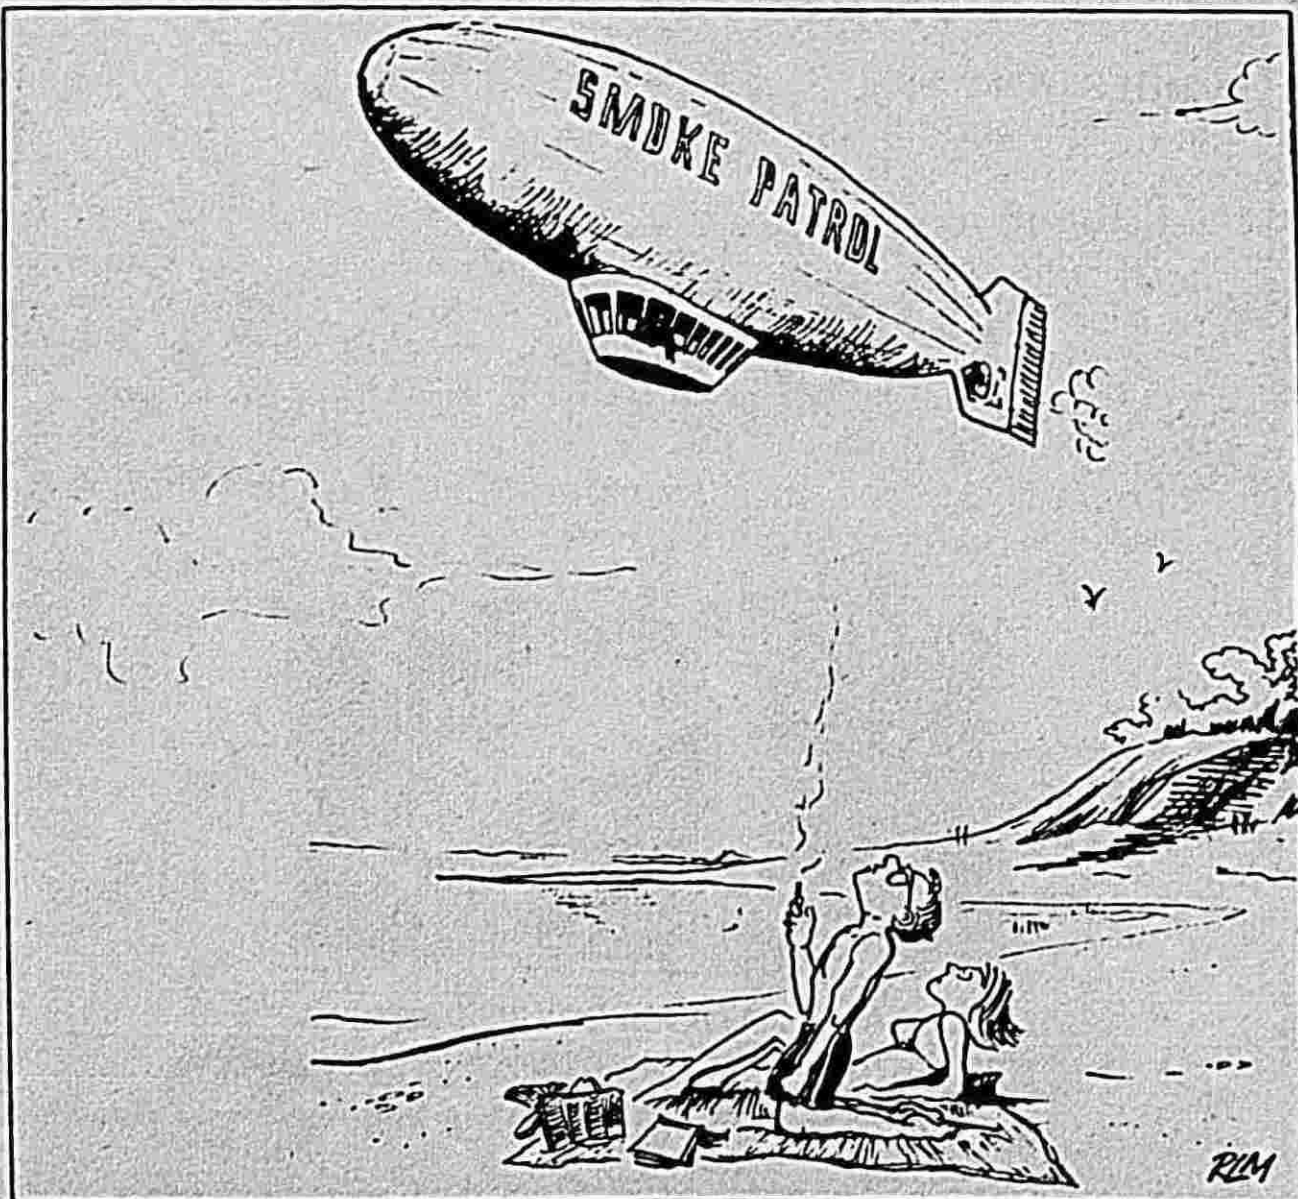

— Last year, the average expenditure per pupil was $4,000-up 11 percent over a 10-year period when adjusted for inflation.

— Illinois ranks ninth in the nation in the percentage of dollar support for schools from local sources.

— In 1967, 25 cents of every education dollar came from the state; in 1987, 42 cents of every education dollar came from the state—a 68 percent increase.

Arguably, we should be doing better to meet the needs of our young people in today's high tech society. At the same time, though, education is a heavy burden which a majority of Illinois citizens share with good humor.

Goodbye suburbs, hello whatever we're becoming

by BILL SCHROEDER

Whatever happened to suburbia?

Hardly anyone argues any more that suburbs as we once knew them, quiet communities with abundant open spaces to which workers retired at the end of a busy workday in the city, are disappearing. In some places, suburbs no longer exist.

What's taken their place? Mark Baldassare, a University of California sociology professor, has identified "disturbia": dense, industrial, self-contained urban regions.

Historian Robert Fishman of Rutgers University in New Jersey calls the new communities technoburbs, or technocities. The difference today from the suburbs of the past, he finds, is the linkage of the worksite and the dwelling place. Originally, suburbs were places to escape the city where women and children could be shielded from the evils of urban life.

Sociologists, urbanologists and demographers are fascinated by what's going on in villages and communities, like our town, all across the land. Experts have identified sub-levels of the area extending beyond the central city core. Some suburbs have been transformed into places where Americans live, shop, work and play. Competition in the onetime suburban area is fierce. The "feisty suburb" now is a distinct entity, the community that wants to be the "biggest guy on the block."

Do any of these labels have a familiar ring? Sure they do. The experts are talking about us. They're talking about Lake County.

Geographer Truman A. Hartshorn of Georgia State University has studied evolving suburbs as suburban down-towns. Focusing on economic issues of the suburban evolution, Hartshorn noted in an article in Insight that traditional suburbs—the bedroom communities—likely will continue to exist, probably where there's a dying economy.

Hartshorn likes to take a positive view of the future. He thinks a majority of the people are missing the point about growth and development, the suburban evolution. "For most Americans, I would think it's more important to have a job and have access than it is to live a myth."

MISLEADING—Friends and associates of A. Harold Anderson, owner of Picket Fence Farm, which has been ticketed for purchase by the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist., are upset that open space zealots have tagged him as a hard-hearted businessman interested only in money.

"Nothing of the sort," exclaimed Jerry Helgren, who has been associated with Anderson for nearly 30 years and managed Picket Fence when its prize Black Angus beef cattle had a world-wide reputation.

"What I can't understand is why county officials never bothered to find out what the plans were for the future of Picket Fence Farm," wondered Helgren, who now is sales manager for a real estate company. "Harold Anderson is a reasonable person. He would have been happy to work with the Forest Preserve Dist."

Over the years, Anderson has been a major benefactor of the Swedish Covenant Church which holds title to 162 acres in the area known as Picket Fence Farm. Other parcels are owned by the Haacke family (60 acres), John Epstein and Third Lake Park. Forgotten in the heated debate is the fact that Anderson and his partner, attorney Paul Brendell, donated 168 acres on which College of Lake County is located.

ROBE MAKER—Alice Czuczor, dean of Lakeland Newspaper correspondents before her retirement several years ago, is enjoying life and keeping retirement homes well supplied with lap robes that she knits. "At 86, I'm not getting around as much as I used to," exclaims Alice, who is as quick witted as ever. Besides knitting and keeping track of her grandchildren, Alice maintains a watchful eye on the Lake County political scene. "Where are the honest politicians?" Alice opines.

Alice, who served as village clerk of Round Lake Beach 25 years ago, astounded public officials around the county the time she returned cash left over from her stipend to attend the Illinois Municipal League Convention in Springfield, an unheard of act then and now. "I didn't need all the money and I didn't use all of it. It wasn't mine so I returned it," Alice snapped at the time. She recalled the incident the other day with a hearty chuckle.

Heavy metal has a fan

Editor:

Welcome to Russia in the eighties. I just recently read Rick Schiltz' article about skipping school and heavy metal music. Wake up and smell the vapor trails. In his article he states facts about pregnant teenage girls, self abortions, robbed teachers and suicidal teenagers.

Well, tell me Rick, what about the adult alcoholics, the divorce rate, the ever-growing number of adultery cases, adults heavily into drugs and adults committing suicide. Is this somehow also contributed to by heavy metal music? I really don't think so. How can one person blame all teenagers' problems on a form of entertainment? Makes sense, right? I am 23 years old and love heavy metal music. I have never killed myself, never taken explicit drugs, or have never given anyone an abortion. I guess that makes me an exception to the rule. Sure.

Parents should quit blaming heavy metal music for their teenagers' behavior and realize their own inadequacies as authority figures. The last time I checked, I lived in America. Don't we have certain rights? What about people who buy handguns and blast away people? Did heavy metal music tell them to? I highly doubt it. I'm in a band and I love almost all types of music, even punk (Agh!!).

Next, we will be reading about the "concerned" parents trying to abolish heavy metal—then it will be time to get rid of rock and roll, in general. Then, you and your teenagers can sit around and listen to Lawrence Welk or Conway Twitty or Liberace and watch Jim Baaker and Jimmy Swaggert tell us how to be good boys and girls. Hey, Rick, get real!

Hear silent majority

Editor:

What is the matter with our state reps? The people all over Lake County are clamoring for open space. We want to preserve our semi-rural environment and protect our quality of life. The cries can be heard from Libertyville to Grayslake, Wadsworth to Wauconda, and Lake Villa to Vernon Hills. Yet the state senators and legislators have turned a deaf ear on our cries.

The only ones they seem to listen to are the home builders, real estate groups, and Municipal League. It is time they wake up and pay some attention to the silent majority—the people who don't want this area to become a carbon copy of Chicago and its traffic jams, stench, school money problems, etc.

I urge them to help Matijevich and Stern do what the people want—save the open space act. This is not something that is unique to Libertyville—it is a movement that has taken hold over the county. The silent majority is mad as hell, and we're not going to take it any more! Increased tax base! Bah humbug! For years we have been paying for development—now we want to be able to spend our money for open space.

Board not committed

Editor:

The Libertyville Twp. Board has been attempting to acquire, through condemnation, the private and residential property of many township residents for its open space plan.

F.T. "Mike" Graham told us at the inception of the program over two years ago, "people would be flocking to the township" to sell or donate their land for the open space plan. This has not happened, as evidenced by the legal bills the township has incurred.

It is apparent the community is not as committed to the Libertyville Twp.

open space plan as is the town board.

To demonstrate the total commitment of the Libertyville Twp. Board to the township open space plan, I wrote to each member of the board asking that they deed their Libertyville Twp. property to the open space program. The property transfer would provide for their residency during their lifetime, and afterwards the property would revert to the township as testimony and a memorial to their commitment to the Libertyville Twp. open space program. I have received no replies to my suggestion, even though I assured board members I would pay the costs and have my attorney prepare the documents on their behalf.

There appears to me to be no reason why the board should not be willing to demonstrate their leadership and total commitment to the open space program when they have repeatedly filed condemnation suits on the residential properties of township residents. To not accept my suggestion may indicate the board is not as committed to the open space program as they would lead us to believe.

Mythology misconception

Editor:

Ms. Lambert has a terrible misconception regarding mythology—Greek and otherwise—which is perhaps hinted at since she apparently found it necessary to look up the definition. As an English major, I can attest to the value of a broad knowledge of mythology; it saves time from glancing at footnotes and makes the work being read more meaningful.

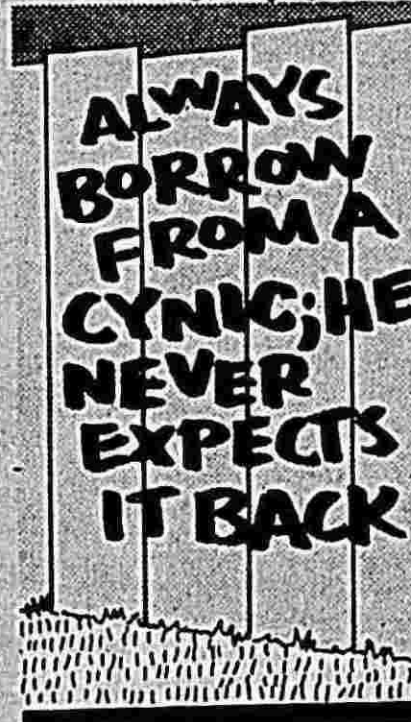

Mythology, particularly Greek, has had a profound impact upon the western world, influencing poets and writers for centuries. Consider the familiar motif of an Achilles heel. This motif illustrates human vulnerability, which is often hidden beneath a seemingly invincible exterior.

Myths strike a fundamental chord in human nature. They provide larger than life characters who often provide caricatures of human foibles and follies. Subconsciously, we recognize ourselves and society in them and think—Aha! Yes, that's true. Finally, Ms. Lambert should understand that mythology is taught as fantastic fiction, with absolutely no element of truth other than psychological. I doubt that she would wish Judeo-Christian religious values to be taught within this context.

Politically speaking . . . .

by Joseph Soulak

Picket Fence Farm, that 1,340-acre plum near Grayslake the Forest Preserve District wants for open space, is generating lots of controversy. Owner Harold Anderson wants to annex the property to Grayslake for development purposes. After some 26 years of preserving this acreage for the 21st Century and donating 400 acres across Washington Street for the College of Lake County, he is hurt about what he views as a land grab.

If Anderson has his way there will be room for both a prime development and open space. There is upwards of 300 acres of swamp and wetland that is ideal for development by the Forest Preserve.

He and others think a man should be able to do what he wants, beginning with the likes of Picket Fence Farm. Had Anderson been greedy long ago he could have turned much of this into any type of commercial, residential or business-industrial development he chose.

But Anderson isn't that kind of a man. He has been a benefactor to Lake County, a booster and lots more. For all of this he is going to get a boot from the County of Lake. This is a man who deserves everyone's blessings.

Charlotte Kiesgan, who represents Antioch, Avon, Lake Villa and Grant townships as Dist. 4 representative on the County Board, takes issue with published reports of her spotty attendance record. She said the record shows only five absences in 24 meetings. One of these, she said, was where she missed the opening roll call, but otherwise attended the entire meeting and voted.

Two March absences occurred while she was staying with her mother, who was in a Springfield hospital for treatment of a heart ailment. A Dec. 21, 1987, absence was due to a bout with the flu, she said, and another, on Jan. 15, was the result of a snowstorm. Entire board attendance was less than normal that day, she recalled of the storm.

"I think my attendance is pretty good," the resident of Fox Lake said. "As a matter of fact, I'm proud of my record."

For those who keep track of such things, the Democrats have slated someone for Lake County Recorder of Deeds in the fall election. He is Jack H. Piller, a 32-year resident of Highland Park and a retired public high school teacher. He was slated because no Democrat filed for the office in the primary held last March.

Mayor Edwin Schroeder of Grayslake feels he is not being fairly portrayed in his bid to stop the Forest Preserve District's "grab" of the 1,340-acre Picket Fence Farm for open space. "No one has gotten our side of the story," he said of the village. "Nor has anyone really bothered to contact all of the different people affected," he said of other landowners.

"If I took a boat and rowed into the middle of Lake Michigan and walked back I think the press and some of the public would still be skeptical," Schroeder said. "The newspaper headlines would say something like 'Mayor Schroeder can't swim'."

Libertyville Twp. Supv. F.T. "Mike" Graham is getting all of the publicity when it comes to Picket Fence Farm, Schroeder said. "He's a dangerous man. His whole idea of open space is to stop growth in Lake County. If he wants to practice growth control he should do it in Libertyville Twp. where the people elected him. Out in the rest of the county we're perfectly capable of taking care of ourselves without Graham's help."

Code book gets look by village

Lindenhurst is taking a new look at its zoning ordinances with the idea of upgrading them to modern-day standards.

Consulting Engineer Lane Kendig has suggested some changes in the Planned Unit Development part of the ordinance book. In particular, the village is looking at a more precise definition of density for new developments in the village and some of the amenities to be provided owners in new sections of the village.

The potential changes will be reviewed periodically over the summer by the village board.

Are you 100 years old?

Are you 100 years old? Lake County Forest Preserve District officials are anxious to hear from or about anyone in Lake County who will be 100 years old or older during 1988.

According to Donald Strenger, President of the Forest Preserve, along with Helen Belmont Amendola and Matthew Miholic, co-chairmen of the senior citizens recognition day committee, seniors are invited to attend this event of fun, entertainment, prizes, dancing, and activities. Popcorn, ice cream, and drinks will be provided free of charge to supplement the picnic lunch that all are encouraged to bring. The day lasts from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Township Supervisors may help provide transportation. For more information contact Therese Rehberg at (312)367-6640.

Sorting solid waste gaining in interest

If sorting is the wave of the future in the collection and disposal of solid waste, then Buffalo Grove and Woodstock are on the cutting edge. And Fox Lake might not be far behind.

HOD Inc., a subsidiary of Waste Management Inc. located in Antioch and a major Lake County scavenger, is spearheading efforts in the Chicago suburbs to institute sorting by customers to advance the cause of recycling and improve landfilling.

Woodstock now is involved in sorting and Buffalo Grove will begin sorting July 1 with the help of a special $65,000 vehicle.

Fox Lake soon will begin negotiating a new contract. Officials have expressed an interest in the possibility of adding sorting features which, in a nutshell, involve separation of aluminum and tin cans, glass, newspapers and plastic.

Variations of sorting techniques include separate containers or use of one container where the collector physically empties sorted material into a specially built vehicle.

Plastic milk jugs properly sorted, a Waste Management told Fox Lake officials, are worth 18 cents per pound.

Sorting can be worked at collection points, as in the case of Woodstock, and curbside separation, which is being employed in Western suburbs by Waste Management.

A recycled tin can can be back on the shelf within six weeks with modern technology, according to Waste Management's sorting consultant.

Trustee Darwin Follman, Fox Lake sanitation chairman, said the village will pursue the inquiry into the feasibility of sorting. Fox Lake has 2,977 pickup units.

Blast probe pushed, police guard site

North Chicago fire and safety officials are continuing an investigation into the explosion at Traco Inc., a chemical company, that shook the entire east side of North Chicago and sent debris flying as far as Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

Fires broke out at neighboring Coleman Cable and Mid-America Bag Co. along Commonwealth Ave.

North Chicago police sealed off a four block area after the first explosion at 3 p.m. Wednesday, June 1, and have been maintaining heavy patrols to curb looting and prevent curiosity seekers from interfering with investigative work.

Victims were taken to Victory Hospital.

A second explosion, about two hours after the first, triggered Lake County's mutual aid network into action involving every fire dept. in the county.

The wreckage continued to smolder until the end of the week. Original smoke clouds were seen from as far away as Kenosha.

Village sees cost hike

Lindenhurst is currently seeking proposals for its health insurance program. It is contacting brokers for the village's group program in light of anticipated cost increases by its current insurer, Blue Cross.

Lindenhurst, like other villages and private employers, are being subjected to rising insurance costs this year.

Safe boating week is here

Safe Boating week is from Sunday, June 5, through Saturday, June 11. Purpose of the week-long observance is to encourage all boaters to appreciate the safe and sane use of their craft, when it be a small boat with motor for fishing on the Chain O' Lakes or a larger craft plying the waters of Lake Michigan.

Since 1958, when Safe Boating Week was first approved by an act of Congress and presidential proclamation, the number of recreational boats in use has grown from 5 million to 17 million nationwide. This year nearly 70 million Americans will go boating. Observance of this week is being promoted locally by the Waukegan Power Squadron.

Recreational boating is fun, say National Safe Boating Week coordinators, but more than 1,000 people lose their lives each year in boating accidents. The number of boating fatalities exceeds the number of fatalities in airline accidents, commercial shipping accidents and rail accidents each year.

Because most accidents are the result of a capsizing, someone falling overboard or a collision of small boats in inland waters, boating accidents do not often rate major attention by the news media or public. The people who die might be out fishing, waterskiing or cruising. Most don't belong to boat organizations.

More than one-half of all boating accidents resulting in death can be traced to alcohol use. Operating a boat while intoxicated is illegal and dangerous, says the National Safe Boating Council.

'Dreamgirls' rocks Candelight's stage

by GLORIA DAVIS

Hey now! Do you like rock and roll, Motown, jazz and the blues? Well it all can be found rolled up into one mighty fine package, and expertly done, at the Candelight Dinner Theatre on Harlem Ave, in Summit.

William Pullinsi presents his version of the Tony Award winning musical(almost an American opera) "Dreamgirls" for all comers to look at, listen, laugh with, cry with and just plain enjoy.

Lynette Dupre has the role of Effie, one written with show-stopping scenes and songs in mind, and Dupre successfully uses it all to her own advantage and the show's edification.

Alton F. White is sufficiently money hungry enough to handle the part of Curtis, the demagogue promoter well and Dedra Williams is gorgeous and talented as Deena(some say based on the Supreme's and Diana Ross).

Marshall Titus, who almost stole the entire production of "The Wiz" at Marriott Lincolnshire, does some good dramatic emoting as well as knocking them dead in the musical number department.

The other two "Supremes - Dreamgirls," Victoria

Hubbard paintings at Kenosha gallery

"Altered States," a selection of recent paintings by John J. Hubbard, will be featured at Gallery 124, at the Kemper Center, Kenosha, throughout the month of June.

Hubbard uses his work to explore the idea of the "enigma". His recent paintings present stark landscapes populated with figures, animals and artifacts interacting in a manner suggesting a sense of purpose which challenges the interpretation of the viewer.

Hubbard, a native of Wisconsin, studied drawing at the University of Wisconsin, Madison as well as graphic design and illustration at Madison Area Technical College.

He later studied at the Maryland Inst. of Art in Baltimore receiving a bachelor of fine art degree in drawing in 1982 and a master of fine art (Hoffberger School of Painting) in painting in 1984.

Hubbard is widely exhibited and is represented by the Ward-Nasse Gallery and Ariel Gallery, both in New York City; Joy Berman Galleries in Philadelphia; William engle Gallery in Indianapolis; and Open Space Gallery in Allentown, Pennsylvania. He has also had work exhibited at Gallery 124 in Kenosha for the last year.

Hubbard currently resides in Allentown, Penn. In addition to his painting, he works as a part-time framer and as a museum preparator for the Allentown Art Museum. He also teaches drawing and painting at the Wyomissing Inst.

Vrdolyak slips in-out, in keeping with nickname

by JOESOUKAK

Lots of people have wondered where former Chicago Ald. Edward Vrdolyak got the name "Fast Eddie." Some say its because of his meteoric and sometimes merciless rise in Chicago politics. A close ally of the late mayor, Richard J. Daley, Vrdolyak has had to go it alone for the last few years.

Not long ago, he switched from the Democratic to the Republican party and is now running for clerk of Cook County. Lots of people can remember when he ran the Democratic Party in Chicago and "beat our brains out" recalls Robert Neal, head of the Republican Party in Lake County, speaking of election-night returns.

Now, everyone is happy to embrace Vrdolyak. They are so happy that he gets the red carpet treatment at GOP functions all over Lake County.

He attended the Lincoln Day Dinner at Maravella's in Fox Lake and was sitting and standing in a conspicuous place to meet and greet everyone. He was put on the program ahead of everyone else.

A cameo appearance and a few short words later and he was gone. After this performance, those attending thought that they now knew where Vrdolyak got his nickname.

There was a carbon-copy of this performance at the Lake County Republican Federation Dinner in Mundelein. Anyone who is anyone in party politics was there. Vrdolyak got there early to meet and greet Waukegan Mayor Robert Sabonjian was fashionably late, but being a mayor of 23 years standing, made it a point to shake Vrdolyak's hand and offer his best wishes.

Eddie Vrdolyak and Mayor Robert Sabonjian

Then, like his Fox Lake appearance, Vrdolyak was put on the program to make "a few remarks because he had to rush off." The man from Chicago did exactly that, promising to bring glory and honor to the Republican name before anyone knew it he was gone.

Republicans are hoping that he sticks around a little longer next time he visits Lake County just so they can ask him where he got his nickname.

Travel centers offer tour advice

Got the travel bug? It's usually stirred by the need to relax in a friendly resort, hike in lush green forests, canoe, kayak, or just go fishing!

The Wisconsin Division of Tourism Development has the remedy, tourist information centers! They provide friendly oases packed with information about the Badger state's bountiful tourism resources.

Over 1.5 millions travelers took advantage of Wisconsin's Tourism Information Centers during the state's fiscal year 1986-87. That figure includes highway visitors as well as tourists seeking travel information at the state's urban centers in Madison and Chicago.

And they come from all over the world! Leading the ranks are tourists from Illinois (46 percent), followed by Wisconsin (14 percent), then Minnesota (12 percent), Iowa, Indiana and Michigan.

The Centers also greet thousands of visitors from Ohio, Florida, Missouri, California, Canada and other foreign countries.

"Our tourist information centers are often the first contact our visitors have with the state and we're proud that those first impressions are friendly and productive," says Department Sec. Bruno Maurer.

Seven of Wisconsin's Tourism Information Centers are strategically located at the state border points in Beloit, Kenosha, Hudson, LaCrosse, Genoa City, Prairie du Chien, and Superior with a year-round Chicago office that serves the greater Chicago area.

The state's Madison Center welcomes visitors downtown near the Capital square and provides information for phone inquiries.

The Genoa City, Prairie du Chien and Superior Centers open their doors mid-May through October. All other centers are open all four Wisconsin tourism seasons. Visitors will receive personalized information service each day from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. during the summer months and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. throughout the winter season. (some hours may vary)

For even more Wisconsin travel information, call toll free, 1-800-372-2737 (in Wisconsin and neighboring states) or 1-800-432-TRIP (nationwide) for a free Wisconsin spring-summer vacation planning kit. Or write to Wisconsin Tourism, P.O. Box 7606, Madison, Wis. 53707.

Summer travelers have fun, go north

Special events, amusement parks, historic museums, open-air concerts, art fairs, farmer's markets, cruises on the Fox River and Green Bay all beckon late spring and summer travelers to sample the Green Bay Area's special blend of fun and hospitality.

Vacationers planning summer excursions can receive a free 1988 tourist package with details on where to stay (including lodging packages), where to eat and shop, as well as things to do and see, by writing: Green Bay Area Getaway, P.O. Box 10596, Green Bay, WI 54307-0596.

Seasonal attractions open weekends in May include Heritage Hill Living History Museum, Bay Beach Amusement Park, and Dutchman's Landing Fun Park, with summer hours of operation starting Memorial Day weekend. Rail America National Railroad Museum is now open daily; a new Slip 'n Slide Waterpark is scheduled to open in June.

Visitors can cruise the historic Fox River on the River Queen Paddlewheeler beginning May 30, or enjoy scenic vistas along the Bay aboard Bo-Mar Cruise Lines' new Jean Nicolet, starting in June.

ROCK TRACKS

By Rob Ferrus

The fight against censorship in the music industry has reached a critical juncture. The PMRC and other "decency" activists have mounted an aggressive campaign over the last three years to convince Americans that rock, pop and R&B are riddled with violence, perverse sexuality and suicide messages. The charges are blatantly false, but the "decency" groups have finally convinced the average American that they are true. What are these people suppressing in their own minds that they are so preoccupied with immorality?

The extent to which these "moral vigilantes" have succeeded became obvious recently when the Village Voice published interviews with three leading Democratic candidates for the presidency: Dukakis, Jackson and Gore. All three showed that they have accepted these distorted views of contemporary music. Jesse Jackson, who should measure his mouth as well, said (while in a shoe store), "We must call pornographic music what it is: child abuse." Dukakis was asked if he believes that there is such a thing as pornographic music, and if it can be equated with child abuse. To paraphrase his long-winded, politician-like answer: yes.

In reality, contemporary music is a far more tame entertainment alternative. The average evening of network television portrays 60 murders. The average week of MTV has none. Over 50 percent of films in any given month feature graphic scenes of violence and bloodshed. The percentage of violent lyrics aired on America's rock music stations is close to zero. The scenes of violence and sexual abuse these morality conscious people so vividly portray as staples of rock concerts simply don't occur as a regular matter on rock stages.

The accusations are so out-of-line with reality that out of the more than 2,000 records released in 1986, the Washington Wives were only able to find 23 which disturbed them. That's only about 1 percent.

If all these minority groups feel such a strong need to undermine the constitution, why don't they forget about smokers and musicians and get down to some serious business, such as instituting a national curfew? ©1988, McNaught Synd.

'Dundee' up to new tricks still enjoyable

by GLORIA DAVIS

One of the biggest movies released this summer is "Crocodile Dundee II," already the top grosser after just being released last week.

Like all sequels, the problem with Dundee II is that a lot of the surprises are gone, one of the things that made Dundee I the spectacular success it was.

This time when a cannibal-like creature speaks like he came from New York, its cute, but loses its impact, except of course for those that didn't see the film's predecessor.

But Paul Hogan, who again plays the title role, has lost none of his crude charm as he romps through the flick with the same ease he displays when he takes an afternoon stroll on a high-rise ledge in order to distract a jumper.

Although the most exciting bits have already been shown in the tv promos, changing the bulk of the action back to Australia from the Big Apple was another smart move that adds a refreshing twist to the sequel.

After Dundee and his love, journalist Sue Charlton, played by Linda Kozlowski, get back together (end of first flick), Charlton's first husband enters the plot when he sends her film he has taken of a drug pusher's execution while working on an undercover drug investigation. Of course he is eliminated by the "Big Boys" and then they go after her.

Dundee decides the best way to save his lady fair is to combat the would-be assassins on his own turf, so the loving couple takes off for Australia with the drug pushers in hot pursuit.

This is where you'll see some of the most beautiful scenic shots, some of the cleverest and funniest scenes and also some of the most drawn out, somewhat boring ones.

Give a plus to Hogan's romping through these deadly games as if he's out playing 'Gotcha' with a paint gun.

Part of the chase is slow moving, and too long and dragged out, probably in order to keep to the planned running time.

One of the best scenes is the original ploy Dundee uses to rescue his best friend Walter Reilly, played by one of Australia's top actors, John Meillon, from the killers' clutches.

'Dundee has 'g' day' but could have been better'

by BILL DOTSON

Paul Hogan, the man who did for "G'dye" what Clint Eastwood did for "Make my day", is back as that charming Australian adventurer Michael J. "Mick" Dundee in the imaginatively-titled "Crocodile Dundee II".

Let's get this question out of the way right off: No, its not as good as the first one. But then, sequels rarely are because the freshness is gone. Unless they can come up with a new twist on the material (as in "Superman II") or develop the story they started further (as in "The Karate Kid II"), without just telling the same story over again, then sequels are bound to be somewhat disappointing.

The charm and novelty of the original "Crocodile Dundee" is missing here, but that does not mean this one is a bad movie in its own right. When I wasn't busy comparing it to the first movie, I found things in it that were enjoyable.

The sequel takes a different approach. Whereas the original was basically a romantic character comedy, this one is more of a straight adventure story. It involves Mick and his lady Sue Charlton (Linda Kozlowski) with Colombian drug dealers.

The problem is the villains in this movie are so bland, boring, and one-dimensional that there really isn't as much suspense as there's supposed to be. This is because we know Mick is much more resourceful and clever than all these bad guys put together so there is no doubt that he will win out. Stronger, better-developed characters in the bad guy roles would have made for a stronger story.

Another disappointment is that the romance between Sue and Mick takes a backseat to the "good guy vs. bad guys" plot this time. It would have been interesting to see their relationship developed more than it is.

However, the film is not a complete letdown. There are enough ingredients to make it worth a look. The performances of Hogan and Kozlowski are still as good as before even if the story isn't. Other nice touches include a return to Walkabout Creek, in which Mick is reunited with tour guide Wally and other "mates".

The bottom line is when I stopped looking at "Crocodile Dundee II" for the kind of movie I thought it should have been instead of the kind it chose to be, I found it to be entertaining enough to recommend.

Otis Rush in rare concert at Woodstock Opera

Legendary blues artist Otis Rush will appear in a rare concert performance at the Woodstock Opera House at 6 p.m. on Sunday, June 19. This special Father's Day program marks his final show, prior to leaving for Europe.

The Woodstock Opera House is a 400-seat venue, affording the opportunity to enjoy the music in an acoustically perfect hall, with excellent line of sight and sound and very few distractions.

Appearing with Rush will be Hot House, an exciting local blues band from Waukegan, performing their own set and acting as backing band.

Rush has been playing guitar and recording since the mid-1950s, helping to forge the west side Chicago blues style, and has been cited as influential by such guitarists as Eric Clapton.

His historic recordings on the Cobra record label produced the song "I Can't Quit You" done by Led Zeppelin on their first album. Best known for his soulful, stinging guitar, Rush has played extensively at major festivals throughout Europe and America.

Hot House is becoming known in the area for their music in the Chicago blues style and for their raucous performances during their 1987 tour. They have played together almost a decade and feature R. Carlson on harmonica and Robert Konobeck on guitar.

Musicians in the audience will note that Rush plays left-handed on a guitar strung for right-handed players. Konobeck is just the opposite, which will provide interesting contrasts.

The Woodstock Opera House is located at 121 Van Buren in Woodstock. Tickets are $10, and are available through the box office (815)338-5300

Norsemen plan boat burning

Those sturdy Norsemen have landed again and firmly planted their flag on the soil of McHenry county. Now that Fjordland Lodge 606, Sons of Norway, has received its charter there will be no stopping the spread of Norwegian culture and merriment.

The next thing they plan to do is burn a boat. It's all a part of their heritage, something called. "Sahnkt Hans' Dag", commemorating the longest day of the year.

In Norway, June 23 is the traditional observance of Midsummer Eve. Originally a pagan ceremony honoring the sun at summer solstice, the Old Norse built huge bonfires to fortify the sun and chase away evil spirits.

With introduction of Christianity the ancient sun festival was replaced by celebration of the birthday of John the Baptist, or St. Hans.

Fjordland Lodge members will celebrate on Saturday, June 18 at Barreville and Justen Rds. in McHenry.

There will be food, music, games and the traditional bonfire. They always welcome new members to join, and this would be a great opportunity to meet Norse neighbors.

ASK TONI

John Larroquette was once a 'Black Sheep'

By Toni Reinhold

I know I've seen John Larroquette in a series other than "Night Court," but I can't remember which one. Also, how old is he? - C.B., Ontario, Canada.

John Larroquette

Larroquette played Dr. Paul Herman on the nighttime drama "Doctors' Hospital," which aired during the 1975-76 season, then went on to play Lt. Bob Anderson in "Baa Baa Black Sheep" from 1976 to 1978. His portrayal of Assistant District Attorney Dan Fielding on "Night Court" won him Emmy awards as Best Supporting Actor in a Comedy Series in 1985 and 1986. He also hosted "On Location: The Eleventh Annual Young Comedians Show" on HBO. He was born on Nov. 25, 1947, which makes him 40.

I'd love to write to Maureen O'Hara. I think she's one of the most beautiful actresses who ever lived. Do you have her address? - P.T., Williamsburg, Ky.

The Irish-born O'Hara, who is best known for her role in "Miracle on 34th Street" (1947), now lives in the Virgin Islands. Write to her at Box 1400, Christeansted, St. Croix, Virgin Islands 00820.

Where is Stephanie Beacham from? I say she is English, but my mother says she is an American who just speaks English especially well. - R.D., Hibbing, Minn.

Former "Colbys" star Stephanie Beacham does speak beautifully, but the reason is not only good diction - it has a lot to do with her authentic British accent. A native of Hertfordshire, England, she still maintains a home in Hampstead, England. She lived in Los Angeles while filming "The Colbys," though.

I loved seeing Ray Walston back on TV in the Western "Red River." Tell me: How old is he? - W.H., Turlock, Calif.

Sources differ on whether Walston is 70, 71 or 73. Suffice it to say he has been acting since 1938, when he made his stage debut in Houston. Walston has starred on Broadway and in films, including "Damn Yankees" (1958) and "South Pacific" (1958). TV fans will remember him from "My Favorite Martian" (1963-66), "Stop Susan Williams" (1979) and "Fast Times" (1986).

(Send your letters to Ask Toni, United Feature Syndicate, 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, N.Y. 10166. Due to the large volume of mail, personal replies cannot be given.)

West makes team

of Illinois residents are going to be tough negotiating with the team this summer. But this time on the soccer field and aided by Lindhurst resident Brian West, will be joining the top players across Illinois as part of the Team of Teams-USA. The team will be competing in major youth soccer tournaments in Sweden, Denmark and Holland.

West has been a standout both on the field as a center forward and off the field as a leader. The school team has finished undefeated in 1987 under coach Carl Fleig. West has received many honors: captain, top goal scorer, selected for the travel. When not playing soccer, he spends his time playing basketball, volleyball and tennis. Youth group and is editor of the school newspaper.

West's parents are Robert and Linda West of Lindenhurst.

Team of Teams-USA, working in cooperation with the United States Youth Soccer Federation, is entering its fifth year of selecting outstanding players to compete against their European counterparts. West was selected during the 1987 season and this winter and spring. The program is designed to take players and accelerate their development through intensive international competitions", director of the program said. "Our players are selected not only for their technical skills but also for their promise."

West expects, "to meet soccer players from other countries. Looking ahead, his goal is to play for a national soccer team."

Brigson contributes

Brigson of Lake Villa was a member of the Block Party volleyball team which captured second place in the 1987 United States Volleyball Assn. Lakes region regional championships.

Block Party, competing in the A Division, compiled a record of 11-1 in pool play competition. Advancing to the playoffs, Block Party defeated Illinois State Women in the quarterfinals and then Holligan's in the semifinals. Block Party lost to Read's in the final, 11, in the finals. ## Strong start works for Grant Getting off to a good start can be one way of securing a regional softball victory. But the strategy does not always work.

Grant had a 2-0 lead after one inning and added four more in the sixth to prevail 6-0 over Zion-Benton. Host Warren led 4-0 after one against Waukegan East, but then allowed East to score eight runs and was eliminated 8-4 in the second game of the Warren regional tournament Saturday.

"Our plan was to get a jump on them early," Grant Coach Sue Richardson said.

The Northwest Suburban Conference champions scored twice in the first inning. Chris Scott singled, stole second after the first batter was retired. Linda Brace reached on an error, her sister Becky grounded out but that scored Scott. The second run scored when Tammy Loring reached on an error to score Linda Brace.

The Bulldogs had their chances in the third, fourth and fifth innings but not score that elusive third run until the sixth.

With two out, Janet Selle and Scott both reached on errors. Linda Brace, Becky Brace and Loring all followed with consecutive singles, providing four runs and a 6-0 cushion.

Grant's pitching ace, senior Becky Brace, continued to stifle the ZeeBees. Brace picked up nine more strikeouts, giving her 199 for the year. She had fanned 13 Waukegan West batters in the first regional win, a 13-2, six inning romp.

The Bulldogs were playing players somewhat out of position in the infield but still managed two nifty double plays to stop Zion rallies.

Zion, which finished the season at 17-10, was coming off a 16-2 shattering of Grayslake in their most productive game of the year.

Kelly Hallmann had both Zion hits, a game-starting single in the first inning (she was thrown out by Linda Brace trying to steal second) and a seventh-inning single. Jennifer Meyer walked twice for the Zee-Bees other two baserunners.

The good start theory blew up in Warren's face in the nightcap against Waukegan East.

Warren's offense started after one out in the first. Kathy Thomasowicz singled, Jenny Marker walked and Thomasowicz scored on a Jennifer Wilmot single. After a sacrifice fly, Teri Huntington walked to load the bases. An error scored another run, Teri Ingalls cleared the bases when the East centerfielder could not handle her sharply hit ball.

That gave Warren a 4-0 lead, but that was all the scoring the hosts would see.

Most of the Blue Devils had spent most of the night before at the school's annual prom festivities.

The Warren starter, Jan Jahnke, who had one-hit Round Lake in the tournament opener, experienced some fatal wildness beginning in the fifth. She walked six batters that inning and that, coupled with an error, gave East five runs without a hit.

A bloop single by Terry VanLakee gave East its first hit in the fourth and was good for an RBI. Warren Coach Chris Woodard then called on Crystal Cobb to pitch with East ahead 6-4. After allowing a run to score on a bases-loaded illegal pitch, Cobb held East to one run in the sixth.

"Crystal did a good job in holding them to two runs. Jan ran into some uncharacteristic control problems," Woodard said.

Warren, which finished the year at 16-8, did try and mount a last-ditch effort in the seventh.

With two out, Jahnke and Marker

Musselwhite leads picks on all NSC

Mundelein's softball team, which ripped through the North Suburban Conference opponents toward a perfect NSC season and league title, dominated the league's all-NSC conference team selections.

Almost all of the Mustangs starting lineup made the team as six players were chosen. Junior pitcher Susan Musselwhite, who raised her career no-hit total of 12, was named Most Valuable Player. Seniors Denise Hartmann, Kim Shark and Lisa Ziegler made the team as did sophomores Lynette Kowalke and Ashley Struggles.

With Mundelein clearly the top team, the race quickly became one for second place. Libertyville came on with a rush and Zion-Benton beat Warren 4-0 in the season finale to forge a three-way tie among the clubs at 13-5.

Seniors Terri Ingalls, Jenny Marker and Kathy Thomasowicz made the team for the Blue Devils.

Libertyville placed four players on the team, led by senior pitcher Whitney Chamberlain. Pitcher Kathleen Quilty, Jamie Evans and Shannon Stanek were selected.

Fenton lost on a bid to make it a four-way tie for second on the season finale loss to Mundelein and finished at 12-6.

Stevenson was 7-11 on the year. The Patriots placed juniors Michelle Sellers and Lori Kunath on the team.

Debbie Henning and Tara Farnsworth, both seniors, were picked from Antioch, which finished 6-12 in the conference.

both singled. Like Zion-Benton had done effectively last week, East intentionally walked Ingalls. The tying run was at the plate, but Wilmot struck out.

"We could not get our bats to come to life until the last inning. You can't fault the contact, we had some real good shots," Woodard said.

Woodard said before the tournament began that the team would have to hit more if it was to advance in its own tournament at Viking Park in Gurnee. In fact, she tapped a note to the dugout fence before the East game. Calling it the "blue light special", she offered four quarters to each player if the team got more than seven hits. It had five for the game.

Jahnke looked strong against Round Lake, striking out 10 batters and allowing just one hit, a single by Tracy Houghton.

Trailing 1-0, the Blue Devils scored both runs in the fourth. Wilmot singled and Teri Huntington was safe on a bunt. Sue Huntington then scored Wilmot to tie the game. The second run scored on a fielder's choice.

Antioch looks toward future

An upset over the Northwest Suburban Conference champions has Antioch baseball fans and Coach Rich Brown feeling positive about their chances for next year.

The Sequoias beat Round Lake 12-5 in the first round of the Waukegan West regional tournament. Although the Sequoias fell to Libertyville 8-1 in the next regional game, that does not diminish Brown's optimism.

"We wish we could have made it a little closer but they were just too good a club," Brown said of the Libertyville game.

Three earn letter awards for baseball at Aurora U.

Three graduates from Lake County high schools won letters for spring sports participation at Aurora University.

Mike Langer, a 1987 graduate of Grayslake High School, received his junior varsity award from baseball Coach Jim Schmid at the school's spring sports banquet.

Langer, a 6-1, 180-pound freshman, played as an outfielder on the junior varsity team coached by Scott Indorf.

As a team, Aurora captured its fifth consecutive Northern Illinois Intercollegiate Conference title with a 10-0 record. Overall, the Spartans were 22-7 and finished the regular season ranked 22nd in the nation among NCAA Division III teams.

Langer, a business administration major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerda Langer of Round Lake.

Another Grayslake High graduate, Maury Sage, received his third year varsity award from Schmid.

Sage, a 5-11, 175 pound junior, played as a pitcher for the Spartans this season and posted a 4-1-1 record with 31 strikeouts and a 6.29 ERA. A three-year regular for Coach Schmid and the Spartans, Sage was named to this year's All-Northern Intercollegiate Conference team. A physical education major and a 1985 GCHS graduate, Sage is the son of Mrs. Mary Sage of Vernon Hills.

Jeff Potts, a 1985 graduate of Wauconda High School, received his first year varsity award from Schmid.

Potts, a 6-0, 180 pound transfer from the College of Lake County, played as a designated hitter for the Spartans and posted a .344 batting average with 31 hits, six doubles, three home runs and a team leading 36 RBIs. A 28-game starter, Potts was named to the All-Northern Illinois Intercollegiate Conference team.

Musselwhite, Mustangs romp handily toward regional final

Mundelein softball Coach Jim era knew the semi-final regional against Barrington would not be as easy as the 23-0 route the Mustangs won in their regional opener against North Chicago.

"This is the start of the mission. The team will get harder as we go along," Coach era said.

That statement rang true as Barrington forced Mundelein to a full-inning game but lack of offense kept the Mustangs from winning. Susan Musselwhite's pitching kept the Fillies, 8-0.

Barrington threatened early in the first inning as the leadoff batter reached third base. But when she was stranded there, so were Barrington's chances to score.

Musselwhite, named Most Valuable Player in the North Suburban Conference, finished with seven strikeouts against just one walk. Barrington did manage three hits off Musselwhite, who threw her 13th no-hitter against the Warhawks.

The win set up yet another regional final against the rival Libertyville squad. Libertyville blanked Carmel 11-0 in the other semi-final round game.

Mundelein had a 14-hit attack against Barrington, which came into the contest at 15-4. Barrington had eliminated

Stevenson 6-2 in the first round.

Leadoff hitter Ashley Struggles did more than her part in the Mustang cause. She was on base all four times, scored three runs and started the scoring in the first inning with a single, a stolen base, a passed ball and a fielder's choice.

Denise Hartmann, who had a three-for-four day, ripped a triple in the second inning and scored on a Lisa Ziegler single.

In the third, Struggles singled, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a passed ball. Musselwhite then clubbed a home run for a 4-0 lead.

Mundelein, 29-3, added three runs in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Barrington kept the Mustangs under the 10-run rule by throwing four Mundelein baserunners out at home.

Against North Chicago, the Mustangs pounded out 19 hits as Musselwhite fanned 13 batters. The perfect game was ruined early, though, as Jackie Niemitz coaxed a leadoff walk from Musselwhite in the first inning. She also got a third-inning walk off the Mundelein ace.

Already ahead 6-0, Mundelein sent 13 batters to the plate in the third inning and scored nine runs. Holly Smith highlighted the attack with a home run.

Mundelein second baseman Kim Shark turned in a gem of a play in the fourth. With her team ahead 15-0, Shark nonetheless speared a hard line drive off the bat of Tarra Brendt which saved the no-hitter.

Stahoviak's grand slam paces Carmel to championship

by STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

In life, there are certain things that just seem to bring relaxation.

A quiet walk in the park, a day at the beach or reading a good book come to mind.

In baseball, there's nothing more relaxing than a grand slam home run. Just ask Carmel's Scott Stahoviak.

For it was Stahoviak's bases-loaded round tripper in the third inning which expanded a narrow 2-1 Carmel lead and sent Carmel to an 8-1 victory over Waukegan West at Bowen Park in Waukegan. The win gives the Corsairs a spot beside Barrington at the Barrington sectional June 5.

"After the second home run, there was a feeling that we could not be beaten," Carmel Coach Joe Pudlo said.

Yes - the second home run. Stahoviak had clubbed a solo homer in the first inning to give Carmel a short-lived 1-0 lead.

Stahoviak, a senior who graduated from the Mundelein high school with the rest of his class on May 20, said with a wide grin that the grand slam provided a good feeling.

"Anytime you get a five-run lead, you can relax but the key is not to relax too much," Stahoviak, a Grayslake resident, said.

Stahoviak, who was playing knowing that the professional draft was just hours away, had not been a home run hitter his first three years with the Corsairs. This year the Carmel standout has hit seven round-trippers, but the grand slam on Tuesday was the first of that variety.

The first homer came on a 3-1 pitch while the third inning blast to rightfield came on a 2-0 pitch, both generally thought of as "hitter's pitches".

"Both were straight fastballs," Stahoviak said.

Stahoviak does not feel there is any more pressure these days, even though the team is now two wins away from playing in the state finals in Peoria.

"I don't think I'm under pressure because I know my teammates can help," he said.

And indeed, the Corsair bats were working against the Raiders. Carmel registered 10 hits and took advantage of three Waukegan West errors. Meanwhile, Shawn Chambers was pitching his way to a three-hitter and got stronger as the game got older. He finished the game with three strikeouts and surrendered just three singles.

"We were a little nervous in the first inning and we did not play the kind of ball we were capable of," Pudlo said.

But Chambers and the Corsairs quickly settled down.

Marc Ori started the third inning with a bunt single. Sean McInerney came in as a pinch runner. Eric Bruksch then also reached when he put down a perfect bunt down the third baseline. McInerney was safe at second, giving Carmel two on and nobody out. Ricky Splitt then broke open the tie with an RBI single before Stahoviak's clout to right.

Carmel's aggressive baserunning paid off in the sixth. Paul Ostrowski singled and Eric Maloney was inserted as a pinchrunner. Maloney advanced to second on a sacrifice and scored on a Bruksch single.

Two West errors gave Carmel its final run in the seventh.

The Raiders had done the Corsairs a favor in the semi-finals by knocking off Libertyville 6-1. The Wildcats were generally favored to reach the regional championship game.

The Corsairs have already played their next foe, the Broncos, and lost 10-4. But that was an early-season game.

"We are going into the contest to play our game and not be intimidated," Pudlo said.

Early scoring propels Carmel

Carmel scored early and then hung on in a 4-3 win over Zion-Benton which gave the Corsairs their spot in the final game of the Waukegan West regional.

Greg Weber picked up the win for Carmel, striking out seven Zee-Bees and allowing no walks. Pat Halverson pitched the final two innings in relief to gain the save, and struck out three.

The Corsairs scored twice in the first as Ricky and Randy Splitt singled, Bob Langer sacrificed and Chris Walsh put down a perfect bunt which Zion threw away for a two-base error and two runs scored.

In the third, Randy Splitt was hit by a pitch, Scott Stahoviak doubled him home and went to third on a ground out. Stahoviak then scored on a sacrifice fly by Walsh.

Softball City opening nears

Play ball!

That familiar cry is expected to be heard for the first time next week at Hainesville's Softball City.

The first games at the all new softball complex were expected to be played on June 6.

The complex, whose owner Otis Carter, first suggested locating in Grayslake, was a topic of hot debate at Hainesville village board meetings. The village board, despite Mayor George Benjamin's objections, approved the closing hours of 11:30 p.m.

Nearby residents said the lights were too bright during testing, but Carter said those lights could be adjusted.

Low-voltage outdoor lighting: New interest idea

As a person looking for home improvement trends, they may not be aware of the recent vast interest in outdoor lighting. Reserved for the "elite trade," outdoor lighting is now available at a reasonable cost and in contemporary designs to suit a wide range of needs. The lighting industry has seen a big change in the last three years, and the biggest change has occurred in low-voltage outdoor lighting. The lighting industry on regular household electrical that has been replaced by a transition to much safer current. New features in the product category are driving market growth. The market has long been slow, but it is safe to say that low-voltage lighting is instantly improving the aesthetics of the home and its landscaping and is low in cost. But the market stayed static for many years because the products didn't change. What has rejuvenated interest has been the new designs. The new low-voltage lighting fixtures are manufactured from high-impact engineered plastics that allow modern, stylish designs to be produced at low cost. Not only are the fixtures inexpensive, complete kits of lights, cable and transformer are available for $50 to $100. And electrical power costs can be as low as eight cents per day. New technologies are also appearing in the form of better lighting lenses (for brighter and more attractive light diffusion), longer-lasting materials and new control mechanisms. While mechanical timers are available on most low-voltage transformers, many also include photo cells that turn a lighting system on at dusk and off again at dawn. There are obvious locations in any landscaping design in which outdoor lighting fixtures make sense; temple-shaped accent lights along walkways or sidewalks for safety; mushroom-shaped garden lights along the edge of plantings for definition; floodlights for uplighting or downlighting trees; and stylish, cylindrical post lights around a new gazebo or deck for aesthetics and access. Because low-voltage lighting is so easy to install and remove, anyone can use their imagination in light placement. It's easy to correct any perceived mistakes. There are only four basic steps to most installations. First, attach the small transformer box to a wall or other surface and connect it to an outlet.

Low-voltage lights beautify the night

Next, lay cable in design that accommodates all intended lighting fixtures. Third, press the sharp metal prongs on the fixtures into the cable and stick the fixture stakes into the ground. Last, cover the cable with dirt, sod, wood chips or other covering. Four reasons most homeowners purchase outdoor lighting is safety, security, recreation and aesthetics.

HOME IMPROVEMENT

New equipment easy to use

As recently as 10 years ago, most homeowners considered it a luxury to own more than one piece of outdoor power equipment.

The basic walk-behind lawnmower was the sole piece of power equipment around the house. Today, a new generation of low-cost electric power equipment such as power-vacuums, weed trimmers and electric blowthrowers has changed this perception.

Not only does the new generation of tools give consumers outstanding value for the money, the new tools save time and trouble.

Electric lawn and garden equipment is particularly popular among consumers among people with lots of smaller than one-quarter acre in size or 70 by 70 feet.

One of the reasons is cost. For example, a blower-vacuum can produce jet streams of air up to 135 mph as a blower and converts, without tools, to a high-powered vacuum that holds up to two bushels of leaves and debris. Some units even have a mulching fan that reduces the volume of lawn debris from six bushels down to one. Yet, it costs less than $80.

Because they are electrically powered, electric blower-vacuums start instantly, even after long periods of not being used. This might be an important consideration for women and senior citizens, who may not have the upper body strength necessary to start unresponsive gas equipment that has been idle for months.

Tips to sell home much easier

Homeowners planning to offer their homes for sale should carry out programs before offering the homes for sale to make the sales easier and more profitable for them. The Professional Remodelers Association of Illinois (PRA) makes the following suggestions.

First, make sure the yard is neat and tidy. This means that the grass should be cut, the bushes trimmed, bicycles, wagons, and other children's implements put away. This will create a good initial impression. Further if the front door and frame look shabby, it would be well to refinish them.

Inside, take care of the obvious defects. Any windows cracked? Screens torn? Floor tiles obviously worn, especially in the kitchen? Replace them. And, any other obvious cosmetic improvements should be made. Cracks in basement floors or walls, leaky faucets, stains on walls or ceilings, should all be taken care of before the first buyer is brought over by the real estate agent.

Another important activity is how the homeowner conducts himself or herself when the home is being shown to a prospective buyer. These suggestions are a series of 'don'ts'. Don't walk around with the real estate agent and the potential buyer as they go through the home. If possible, go out while they are looking. Don't enter into their conversations. Don't discuss the ethnic make-up of the neighborhood. That is illegal.

Build backyard gazebo over weekends to save

Outdoor living is becoming a challenge as the deck as a favorite outdoor room. But pre-fab gazebos and contractor fees can crunch a budget. Here is a new gazebo design that can save big savings for the do-it-yourselfer. It is featured in the recent issue of Workbench Magazine.

Due to its design is a system of pressure-treated wood specialties that easily fit together. For instance, the pre-cut spindles fit into the handrails and the handrails. The stair treads are pre-cut and notched and rounded. The lattice panels fit into pre-cut framing. The result is less fitting and fitting, easier construction steps and a design that is compatible with standard dimensional lumber. Pressure-treated lumber was used in this gazebo for reasons other than the availability of the wood specialty. This lumber option can cost up to 30 percent less than the not-as-durable redwood and cedar. And, left unfinished, all three types of wood weather to the same shade of gray.

The best pressure-treated wood is Southern Yellow Pine or Ponderosa Pine treated under pressure with a chemical called CCA. The treatment allows the wood to withstand rot, fungus and bugs. Depending on the level of treatment, some treated lumber can be in contact with the ground, and some can be counted on to last for decades.

Treated wood has been sold both as a generic product and under brand names for several years.

This gazebo is constructed of the finest brand of treated lumber insofar as the source of the wood and chemical treatment.

Build this gazebo for less than $2,000

Frederick gets AAUW top honor

State Rep. Virginia Frederick (R-Lake Forest) of the 59th District has been honored by the American Assn. of University Women by receiving an annual research and endowment grant established in her name.

The grant will fund individual, branch and division activities that support goals related to public service, education and development as determined by the national board of AAUW. Annual funding will come from branch projects and through designated contributions from other branches in the area, including Mundelein-Libertyville and Waukegan, both of whom have already contributed.

Endowment funds are established part of the AAUW's support for specific projects undertaken by women and the bachelor's degree. Until this specific fund was created, the Lake Forest branch contributed annually to a general educational fund of the organization.

Frederick was honored for her many years of work with AAUW on a local, state and national level. On a national level she served as a member of the International Federation of University Women from 1976 to 1978. She served as state president from 1975 to 1977.

"This is one of the greatest honors I have ever received," Frederick said. "I cannot begin to express my gratitude and appreciation to AAUW, which has meant so much to me over the years."

SOME OF THE GREATEST INNOVATIONS HAVE SUFFERED FROM A LACK OF VISION.

Lots of great ideas come and go.

Among them, what was described as the "future of filmmaking" and "the most revolutionary advance since the talkies".

Pretty one-dimensional, to say the least.

But, as it turns out, the introduction of 3-D did teach us all something. Like, no matter how much fanfare an idea gets, it still has to be a good one.

Which is why, at First of America, we're committed to the Satisfied Customer Guarantee.

And, what that means is that if you have a problem, we'll solve it.

Or, if you have a question about any facet of our service, we'll answer it.

And if for any reason you're not satisfied with us, we'll do everything we can to reach a solution.

The point being, we want you to be happy with your banking. No ifs, ands or buts.

So stop by any First of America Bank location and pick up a copy of the Satisfied Customer Guarantee.

Because, while some ideas look great at the time, it's much better to put them in the proper perspective.

POWs can get their medal

The Prisoner of War Medal is now available to former prisoners of war, who rendered honorable service during their period of captivity, according to state Rep. Robert W. Churchill (R-Lake Villa) of the 62nd District.

The medal will be issued at no cost to members of the Armed Forces, who were taken prisoner of war and held captive after April 5, 1917. The medal may also be awarded posthumously to the next-of-kin of POW's who died in captivity.

"It is a coveted symbol of all our fallen heroes and those who returned home safely," Churchill said. "I encourage all veterans of Korea and Vietnam and our World Wars, who were held by the enemy in defense of the United States, to apply for their medal. It is a token they deserve, one that attests to their service, service that has made this country better for all of us.

"I also encourage the close relatives of those in the military, who perished in captivity to write for the medal. They can serve their loved one's memory well by attaining the POW symbol," Churchill said.

"The medal represents the strife they were willing to undergo and the life they ultimately gave in order to promote freedom and peace in troubled lands."

"They did not die in vain," Churchill said. Former POW's, or their relatives, may apply for the medal by writing to Churchill,

DOCTOR'S FORUM

by Dr. Mark Bowman

WHEN SHOULD YOU CALL A DOCTOR?

This article is the first of a series dealing with commonly encountered first aid problems. Proper first aid administration and appropriate physician follow-up are discussed. Today, tips are given on wound management and animal bites, along with a discussion on rabies.

Wound Management: Primary objectives in care for skin wounds are to thoroughly cleanse the wound and to stop bleeding.

To stop bleeding, simply apply direct pressure to the site. Once heavy bleeding has slowed, proceed with gentle but thorough cleansing with soap and water. Cleansing helps prevent bacterial contamination and serious infection.

Any severe wound, one which is deep or very dirty, should be cared for by a doctor. Further cleansing, antibiotic treatment, suturing and a tetanus shot may be needed. For transportation to the hospital or doctor's office, cover the wound with a sterile dressing to prevent further trauma or infection, and maintain adequate pressure if bleeding has not stopped.

Animal Bites: Care for animal bites should follow the same instructions for wound management. An additional concern, however, is the risk of rabies. Though human rabies is now a rare disease, each year more than 30,000 people receive rabies shots as a result of possible exposure.

Wild animals are the most common source of infection. Skunks, foxes, raccoons, coyotes, bobcats and bats are likely to be infected. Most rodents have not been known to transmit rabies in this country. Most domestic dogs and cats are no longer infected.

If a healthy domestic animal bites a person, it must be identified and held under observation for 10 days. If physical signs indicate that the animal is rabid, it will be killed and sent to a state health department for testing and verification. Any wild animal, or rabid-appearing domestic animal should be killed immediately and sent to the health department.

Any animal bite requires immediate consultation with a physician. Rabies shots are likely to be given if a domestic animal (primarily a dog) shows signs of rabies, or if the wound was infected by a wild or unidentified domestic animal.

To My Patients And Friends

Dear Patient:

Due to my recent illness and age I reluctantly decided to retire from active medical practice as of May 31, 1988.

Dr. Mark Tucci, M.D. has been associated with me for the past four years and has been providing excellent medical care for many of my patients.

Dr. Tucci is taking over my practice and will continue to provide medical care to you after my retirement.

Your medical records remain on file at this office and may be transferred to another physician upon written request.

I wish you all the best of Health and Happiness and thank you for the 30 years of loyalty you gave me while practicing in Fox Lake.

Very truly yours,
